Money Wasted By Board, Cranston Charges

ELIMINATES HIMSELF AS CANDIDATE

Declares Public Money Is Used to Erect Buildings That Are Not Needed

HITS AT CONTROL

Says Present Board Trying to Control Future Even After Next Election

WILFUL WASTE of the public's money by the present board of education through the unnecessary erection of elementary schools in Santa Ana was charged in a statement issued today by J. A. Cranston, superintendent of city schools.

"In the recent school building program for elementary schools I was opposed to increasing the number of elementary school buildings for three reasons," Cranston says. "First because we already had too many elementary school buildings as the survey made by Drs. Hull and Ford proved, thereby entailing an unnecessary building expense; second on account of the unnecessary annual expense for maintenance, and thirdly, which is most important, the making of a strong program impossible."

Cranston charges that in one new elementary school building of eleven rooms there are 102 pupils. Last semester there were two pupils in the high sixth grade and at the beginning of this semester there was but one pupil for the beginning or first grade.

"It is unnecessary," said Cranston, "to say that such conditions make for unnecessary expense and a very satisfactory educational program. I was opposed to the present board's action, not only regarding the building program but for its attempt to protect their control of our schools into the future for three years regardless of what the will of the people might be when expressed at the ballot box on April 13."

Following is Mr. Cranston's statement in full:

"About a year ago I announced that it was my desire to retire from school work. That wish came partly from a desire to be free from the heavy responsibility of the board's action, not only regarding the building program but for its attempt to protect their control of our schools into the future for three years regardless of what the will of the people might be when expressed at the ballot box on April 13."

REAPPORTIONMENT BATTLE TO BE RESUMED FIRST OF WEEK

FUNERAL PYRE PREPARED FOR MANAGUA RUINS

Unrecovered Dead Burned in Huge Fire in Midst of Demolished City

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 4.—(UP)—A funeral pyre was prepared today in the ruins of the once flourishing city of Managua.

Squads of relief workers, almost exhausted by the vain task of recovering all of the earthquake dead from the ruins of the central part of the city, poured oil over the debris which was once the central market and the penitentiary.

The wreckage will be the pyre of the unrecovered dead today when the cremation will remove the last possibility of an exact count of casualties.

A careful check by national guard officials of the number buried since the city was destroyed by quakes last Tuesday showed a total of 566 bodies accounted for. In addition 40 others were reported buried in a trench at the outskirts of the city.

Lieutenant Colonel F. R. Garrett of Monroe, La., said that more than half of the dead already were buried and that the total would not exceed 1000. E. J. Swift, the Red Cross director, confirmed his estimate.

The strain on the refugees as well as the marine forces and the national guards was demonstrated last night by seven shootings. A guard at the water tanks which formerly supplied the city, shot four persons attempting to take polluted water. The natives had been warned repeatedly against using the water, but the shortage forced them to extremes—with the resultant danger of an epidemic.

Earlier, another guard shot three looters who were fleeing from the ruins of the city. One of them had $7000 on his person.

The evacuation of the last groups of American women and children was resumed. The transport Chau-mont at Corinto, where they were taken, will carry about 150 of them to the Canal Zone. The others will be taken to the United States by other ships.

"I have never seen a city so utterly destroyed as Managua," said Swift after his first survey of the capital.

He commented on the orderly and voluntary evacuation of the population. Only about 15,000 refugees from the city are left in this vicinity and they are being cared for by the relief committee which Swift organized after conferences with American Minister Matthew Hanna and President Jose M. Montecada.

Plans Damage Suit Against Father-in-Law

OAKLAND, Calif., April 4.—(UP)—With his first suit for $500,000 damages thrown out by a Seattle court, Stanley Hitchcock, Oakland broker, said today he will bring a second damage action against his father-in-law, C. D. Hillman, Seattle capitalist, for alleged alienation of Mrs. Hitchcock's affections.

"I will teach Hillman he can't meddle with my family affairs," Hitchcock said when informed of the Seattle court action. "The non-suit decision means nothing, as I had planned to file an amended complaint anyway. I have letters from my wife in which she declares she is sorry she was compelled to leave me."

KNUTE ROCKNE LAID TO REST IN SOUTH BEND

Thousands Pay Final Tribute to Memory of Famous Coach Today

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 4.—(UP)—Knute Rockne was buried today at the scene of his football triumphs.

Near Notre Dame stadium where his football teams won glory under his guidance, funeral services for the famous Notre Dame coach were held in the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Six years ago Rockne knelt in the same church and was baptized in the Catholic faith.

Today thousands of his friends gathered on the campus but only 1000 could sit in the chapel and hear the simple services—simple because Rockne would have wished them so and because it is Holy Week.

A seemingly endless line of mourners slowly wended their way from "Rock's" picturesque house in Sunnyside to the church in a grove on the campus with the bronze casket bearing the body, picked from a Kansas pasture where the coach fell to his death in an airplane accident.

As the cortege reached the church, the priests gathered at the altar in the vestibule for the preliminary blessing. Then the

Action Will Be Taken On 2 Measures

Finishing Touches Also Are Put on Water Bills of Sen. Crittenden

SACRAMENTO, April 4.—(UP)—Prepared for a final assault upon the knotty subject of reapportionment, the state legislature today laid plans for the seventh week of the present session, opening Monday.

The two reapportionment bills that have caused the greatest legislative rumpus this far, are scheduled for definite action during the week.

In the senate the McKinley congressional reapportionment measure, which divides the 20 congressional districts allotted to California on a "11-9" basis between northern and Southern California, is set for a showdown Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The assembly has set the legislative reapportionment bill of Senator McKinley for a special order of business Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

This bill has been amended by the assembly to contain all the provisions of a measure by Edward Craig, Brea, previously adopted by that body. These would give 31 assemblymen to Los Angeles county, 31 to San Francisco 10, and Alameda 3.

With one of the greatest water shortages in the state's history facing farmers of the great interior valleys of California, Senator Bradford S. Crittenden, Stockton, today placed the finishing touches on his water measures, to be backed by the legislative water commission.

These bills call for a $188,000,000 program of water development, embracing the entire state. Constitutional amendments, under which the state will give Uncle Sam permission to pay for these huge waterworks and guarantee him repayment from revenue derived by sale of power, water for irrigation, etc., will be required to put the plan into effect.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, April 4.—[To the Editor of The Register:] Just when the country was doing all it could to economize in government, why along comes a law and says "Every time your State gets so many thousand new population, they must all throw in and hire another Representative in their State for Congress." Well, California foolishly grew, and now they got to pay for it. A dozen unemployed must be sent to Congress by the taxpayers. Well, California is split wide in two, the north of the State claim these new ones shall come from the south and the south claim they should come from the north, and the taxpayers are so sore about having to hire extra ones that they don't care where they come from, but are telling 'em where to go.

Yours,
WILL.

EASTER DAY SERVICES ARE PLANNED

Sacred Cantatas and Appropriate Concerts Will Be Featured in City SUNRISE PROGRAMS

Services at First Congregational Church to Begin at 7 in Morning

SACRED CANTATAS, varied instrumental and vocal selections and appropriate music of all kinds will be heard in virtually every church in Santa Ana on Easter Sunday and elaborate programs are being prepared for the large crowds expected to attend the beautiful services.

The musical programs of many of the churches are printed below while the detailed outline of the services will be found on the church page.

First Congregational
The program at the First Congregational church at North Main and Seventh streets will start at 7 a. m. with a procession, "Christ The Lord Is Risen Today." This will be followed by an anthem, "Awake Thou That Sleepest" by Peace, and a solo by Mrs. Pearl Lively, "Open the Gates of the Temple," by Knapp. At 11 a. m. the program includes an organ prelude, "The Glory of the Lord," by Handel; offertory, "Intermezzo," by Handel; organ postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," by Handel; anthems by the congregation, "Our Lord Is Risen From the Dead" and "They Have Taken Away My Lord" and a vocal duet, "Alleluia, Amen!" by Mrs. Pearl Lively and Miss Theo. Schwaiger. At 7:30 p. m., "The Resurrection" will be sung by Mrs. Phillips and then Miss Schwaiger and Mrs. Lively will repeat their duet.

First Christian
The music for the First Christian church at Sixth and North Broadway will open in the morning with special chorus music and will include a solo by Mrs. M. H. Fagan, selections on the marimba by Dr.

WHITE HOUSE WILL BE OPEN ON EASTER DAY

Public Will Be Permitted, Thrown Open to Public By President

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(UP)—With fair weather forecast for Easter, the national capital will celebrate the holiday tomorrow in a manner which in certain respects will represent a shattering of precedent.

The White House gates, thrown open yesterday for the first time in 30 years, will be open to the public again today, with the President and Mrs. Hoover personally greeting the throngs of tourists.

Sunrise religious services will be held at the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington tomorrow for the first time in history and will be broadcast, President and Mrs. Hoover will attend.

Barring botanical miracles, the Japanese cherry trees will not be in bloom, and thousands of out of town visitors will be disappointed in their chief reason for coming here. Daily for some time past, department of agriculture experts have been visiting the mall, fondling the buds on the trees and offering prayers and predictions regarding the probable time of blooming.

Now, however, it appears that the week of low temperatures, accompanied by chill rains, has discouraged the buds, and they won't open for several days.

ACTRESS LEFT OUT OF WINSHIP WILL

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—(UP)—The will of Lieutenant Commander Emory A. Winship, capitalist and retired navy officer who committed suicide three weeks ago, was made public today and disclosed that his young and attractive widow, Mrs. Dorothy Blount Winship, has been provided for at the rate of $250 a month.

The will made no provision for Miss Helen Elizabeth Thompson, 32, former film actress, who claimed that for years she was "wife to Winship in everything but name." She asserted Winship promised her $200 a week for life and threatened suit in event the will failed to name her.

The provisions of the will were given out here by Judge C. W. Slack, local counsel for the Winship estate.

CHAIN STORE OWNER FAGED WITH CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—(UP)—Asserted gifts of groceries to state officials by Clarence Saunders, wealthy chain store operator, were scrutinized by the state corporation commission today as Saunders' hearing to show cause why his stock selling license should not be revoked.

C. F. Reinlein, secretary-treasurer of Saunders stores, was the principal witness during the very episode, testifying that he accounted for $450 worth of goods given to various employees of the corporation commission. Later testimony showed that the employees had received the groceries but in most instances had returned them or offered payment.

FIND BROTHERS IS GUILTY OF LINGLE MURDER

Punishment of 14 Years Is Meted Out By Judge In Chicago Today

CHICAGO, April 4.—(UP)—Conviction of Leo V. Brothers on a charge of murdering Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter, was hailed today by civic, political and religious leaders as the greatest step even taken to "end gang rule in Chicago."

A jury which deliberated for 27 hours found Brothers guilty last night of shooting the reporter in the back of the head in a pedestrian subway last June 9. His punishment was fixed at 14 years' imprisonment, the lightest penalty possible under the verdict.

"By convicting this killer the gang served notice on the world that gang leaders are not wholly immune in our city," said Rufus C. Dawes, president of the World's fair, or Century of Progress exposition, to be held in 1933.

Other high men in the political, religious and civic life of Chicago expressed similar opinions, classing as "epochal" the state's success in breaking at last through the barrier of gangland silence to prove a man guilty of committing a murder.

U. S. BATTLE FLEET REACHES SAN PEDRO

The main body of the United States battle force weighed anchor here today after two months of winter maneuvers off Panama.

The force consisted of six battleships, headed by the California, the flagship of Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander of the battle force.

Six battle ships are in other sections of the country, undergoing repairs.

A GIRL WHO WAS HERSELF BUT OFTEN SOMEBODY ELSE

Peter B. Kyne, popular author of best sellers, has written a fascinating romance about Penelope Gatin, who sometimes forgot she was an heiress and became Nance Bolden, daring and derisive darling of the underworld—How she was rescued by young Dr. Burt from the mental shadows that threatened her with years in prison, how her beauty was restored, how she came at last into her due of love and happiness is told in Peter B. Kyne's "Golden Dawn," which is the next serial story to be printed in The Register.

The first installment will be run in the issue of Monday, April 6.

Don't fail to read the first generous installment Monday and then follow Penelope Gatin, or Nance Bolden, day by day in The Register.

FATHER WINS SUIT AGAINST OWN SON

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—(UP)—Edward J. Maurath sr., of Newark, Ohio, today had won a suit against his son, Edward J. Maurath jr., for possession of a home in Huntington Park.

A verdict giving the father title to the property was handed down yesterday by Superior Judge Dailey S. Stafford. The elder Maurath claimed that a deed to the house held by the son was a forgery. The son contended that the deed, dated March 3, 1922, has actually been signed by his father.

Slight Shock Felt In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—(UP)—An earthquake shock was felt in the western section of San Francisco shortly after 10 p. m. last night. The shock was confined to the Mission and Golden Gate park districts, and police reported there was no damage. Officials of Santa Clara university reported their seismograph did not record a quake.

RICHMOND SCOUTS SAVED FROM DEATH

RICHMOND, Calif., April 4.—(UP)—James McMullins, 15-year-old Richmond Boy Scout, was alive today because Billy McCoy, a member of his troop, had the presence of mind to apply a life saving "Scout lock" when McMullins was seized with a cramp while swimming.

McCoy, 15, and junior assistant Scoutmaster, used almost all of his strength fighting a strong current but could not make the shore of Richmond harbor, where they were swimming. Turning on his back and holding McMullins head above water, he shouted for help.

Clark Woods, cruising nearby in a motorboat, heard the cries and rescued the boys, neither of whom suffered any ill effects.

Mrs. W. H. McCoy, Billy's mother, who stood on the shore helpless to aid, shouted encouragement to them as the lad labored against the current.

CONDITION OF L. A. HOTEL MAN BETTER

BOSTON, April 4.—(UP)—D. M. Linnard's condition was reported "quite good" at Peter Bent Brigham hospital today.

The Los Angeles hotel man, who underwent an operation for a brain tumor a week ago yesterday was said to be recuperating satisfactorily. There was no indication as to how long he would be confined to the hospital.

COLLEGIANS ROBBED BY GUNMEN BATHERS

SAN LEANDRO, Calif., April 4.—(UP)—Gunmen bathing in San Leandro bay donned their clothes and masks early today, held up a beach party of college students and possibly fatally wounded a youth who failed to put his hands up quickly enough.

The car in which the bandits escaped after taking only a purse and a lipstick was found abandoned on a downtown street a few hours later.

Sam Anderson, 20, of Berkeley, a Sacramento junior college student, was taken to Fairmont county hospital with a bullet wound in the groin and was reported in a serious condition.

Other members of the party said the bandits were swimming in the nude and were chased out of sight.

Identify Burglar Slain By Police

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—(UP)—Police announced today that an alleged burglar who was shot and killed here last Wednesday had been identified as George Gale Bandy, 35, said to have been wanted in Racine, Wis., and Minneapolis, Minn., for a series of burglaries and robberies.

The man identified as Bandy was killed by Private Patrolman Frank S. Lawrence while he and a companion were burglarizing a downtown haberdashery.

FALL INJURES 104 YEAR OLD PIONEER

PASADENA, Calif., April 4.—(UP)—Galusha Cole, 104, whose son, the late Cornelius Cole, was United States Senator from California just after the Civil War, was in Pasadena hospital today suffering from a fractured thigh, received in a fall.

The centenarian, alone in his home at the time, slipped on the floor, and for more than two hours lay in pain. The persistent tapping of his cane on the floor finally brought neighbors to his rescue.

SEEK HIT-RUN DRIVER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—(UP)—Charles La Rosa, of San Francisco, was treated in a hospital for serious injuries today while police sought a hit-run driver who, after running down La Rosa, abandoned his car and stripped off all identification marks. La Rosa said he was driving his own automobile when a heavier machine bore down on him. He received a concussion of the brain and severe cuts.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

If other men's experience is a gauge of what you may expect in your life, you will wait in vain for God's manifestation of Himself to bring you confidence in His promises. You are anticipating that He will force Himself upon you and lift you out of yourself.

God's revealing of His presence is usually gradual and cumulative. Those who put their trust in Him discover that strength comes from His presence and assurance from His promises. They march forward, venturing to believe that God will supply enough power and endurance for each new day, if they do their best.

At length they recognize that He has been walking with them; that they have been weary and wearying, and go forward calm and unafraid. So will you.

WOODWARD—April 3, 1931. Harry W. Woodward, of 203 Cambridge St., Orange, aged 30 years. Mr. Woodward was a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Raltt, of Santa Ana; his wife having been Miss Elsie Raltt. Funeral services will be held today at 4 p. m. from Smith and Tuthill's chapel. Interment Fairhaven cemetery. Rev. W. H. McPeak and Rev. G. E. Raltt officiating.

BROWN—In Los Angeles, April 4th, 1931. Mrs. Lottie Brown. Notice of funeral will be given later by Smith and Tuthill.

GOODRICH—Funeral services for William Goodrich, who passed away April 3, 1931, will be held Monday, April 6, at 10 A. M., at the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street; the interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

PILOT'S LICENSE WON BY CHANDLER

B. J. Chandler, well known Santa Ana business man and owner of the Chandler Music company on West Fourth street, this week successfully passed his state examination for a pilot's license, it was announced today.

Barney Horan, 21, of Brea, and several months. Chandler has taken his time about applying for a license. He recently purchased one of the most beautiful planes owned in Orange county and is expecting, this summer, to take several long flights into Mexico and to Canada, he stated. The plane is a cabin style ship, and will accommodate friends of the Chandlers whom they expect to take with them.

Hyper-Metron Circuit

A Phenominal Achievement
by the makers of

WE WILL not attempt to describe the new Hyper-Metron Super Zenith for the reason that radio ad writers have exhausted the entire supply of glowing adjectives and superlatives on every piece of radio apparatus ranging from $29.50 up.

All radios have tubes, speakers, cabinets and play with more or less success. And all ad writers have imagination which they are no doubt paid to use. But the fact still remains that you get just about what you pay for, and there is still real quality and some common sense in radio just the same as in other lines of endeavor.

We know positively that this new Hyper-Metron Zenith Radio is revolutionary and well-worth the money, and that those who appreciate quality merchandise will understand that fine, up-to-date goods cannot be had for a song. Let us assure you that there is still a radio qualified to meet the demands of those who want the best.

MAN OF PAST DISTINCTION, REDUCED TO WANT BY EVIL FATE, SEEKS NEW START HERE

By MASON YOULD

Stark drama, stalking an unusual human result of the present economic depression, rode into town this week. Victim of the pitiless maelstrom of business disturbance, this man of former high estate in the literary, editorial and photoplay-producing fields had come to the proverbial end of his string—to the bottom pit of lack of worldly goods. Literally he had lost everything, including, almost, his courage and with a rather vague idea that if he explored afar from the center of such activities as had been his life-long lot, he might find a place to make a fresh start. Thus he landed in Santa Ana and his pockets being empty after plenty of rebuffs in his endeavors to interest someone sufficiently to give him a position, he was unable to proceed further.

If it was not for the fact that work, either as a writer or producer of motion pictures, or in the national publication field, but, unfortunately, it is not possible even to make a start in this direction when a fellow cannot solve the problem of how to get his bread and butter.

It will be of the keenest interest to the writer to watch the future of this man, and, somehow, there persists a feeling that if he is given the chance to come back he craves, he is liable to attain his highest goal, for he is just in that frame of mind we imagine must have ruled many geniuses when they wrote their masterpieces. Whoever his partner might be in any such enterprise seems destined to enjoy an extraordinary experience in beholding at first hand the real drama of how a big man emerges from the crucible of trying conditions to triumph after all. We don't know, just why, but we predict this man cannot be kept down.

Noted As a Philanthropist

It is all the more remarkable that he, in the heyday of a brilliant career, was classed as one of America's most helpful philanthropists. He has helped countless others. In fact, he was the organizer of a national movement which made of practical altruism a force that operated for an extensive good of his fellow-men. When he was president of this body, it boasted in excess of 150,000 members and scores of people who are today successful are said to readily testify that they owe their starts to the aid so freely given by their leader. Needless to add, a man of this type never reveals to the others he has helped the fact that he now needs some reciprocity. Pride, perhaps, enters the consideration here, but it is easy to understand why a man would be reluctant to publicize himself as such a colossal failure after accomplishing so much during better times.

When he made application for a place on the editorial staff of The Register he was the very picture of a broken man, one made weary in spirit by a protracted siege of reverses with climaxes of a most disheartening nature descending upon him in recent weeks like a veritable avalanche.

"I realize it is not likely there's a position open, but I would be grateful for just a day's work doing anything which would be useful to you," was his manner of applying.

His Record Brilliant
There being something unusual about the appearance of this man—still young in years—the writer felt an immediate interest in ascertaining just who he was or had been. And what he had to show us in the way of documentary and printed evidence of his past achievements of rare distinction was an eye-opener affording a thrill—a thrill over the discovery of what a potential force for destruction untoward psychological circumstances can be.

At any rate, the man was given several days' work and, what a journalist he is! Few editorial jobs in the United States could be too big for him and yet right now he cannot secure even the smallest position.

"Somewhere some time I hope to meet someone who needs me as much as I might need him or her and with the aid of an inspiring partnership, I might succeed in staging a come-back," he says. "I am fully prepared to do my best."

WIDOW ASKS 11 TO PAY FOR SPOUSE'S DEATH

Charging wrongful death, Edith Moore, widow of Raleigh E. Moore, who was killed when his truck and trailer plunged into an irrigation ditch a mile and a half west of Westminster last July, today began a suit in the superior court in an attempt to collect $15,000 damages from the County of Orange, William Smith, William Schumacher, C. H. Chapman, George Jeffrey, John C. Mitchell, who are the present board of supervisors, their respective bonding companies, and John Doe One, Two, Three, Four and Five, who represent the board of supervisors at the time of the construction of the ditch.

The complaint, which was filed today with County Clerk Joe Backs, claims that prior to July 1930 the board of supervisors caused an irrigation ditch to be dug between Santa Ana and Long Beach and that no warnings or safeguards were provided along the ditch and so provided a dangerous menace to travelers in ordinary incidences, and charges them with negligence.

Statement is also made that the board of supervisors were notified that the ditch was a dangerous nuisance prior to the time of the fatal accident.

The County of Orange is charged with failure in the performance of its duty in safeguarding the public highways, according to the complaint.

In the complaint, Mrs. Moore claims that her husband was driving the truck in a prudent and lawful manner when it fell in the ditch and became ignited, causing his death.

Each of the defendants in the action are being sued for $15,000 damages.

Show Directors, Citrus Managers Convene Tuesday

Directors of the Orange County Valencia Orange Show and Fair will meet with packing house managers at a meeting scheduled to be held Tuesday night in the Anaheim Elks clubhouse, it is announced by George Reid, manager of the show.

The meeting will be in charge of Ralph McFadden, chairman of the committee on citrus exhibits of the show. A plan whereby packing houses may enter rack displays without competition and the awarding of prizes will be taken up. A similar meeting was held with 12 managers of various packing houses Thursday night, when all expressed their agreement with this new plan, according to Reid.

Another meeting of the directors and committee chairman will be held next Wednesday night in Huntington Beach at the Golden Bear cafe, at which time additional plans for the presentation of the show that is to be held from June 4 to 14 will be discussed.

ALL'S SET FOR C. OF C. HOME PRODUCTS FETE

Reservations are virtually sold out and everything is in readiness for the fifth annual home products banquet of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce to be held Monday at 6:30 p. m. at the Ebell clubhouse on French street.

It was declared today by George E. Harnois, secretary of the organization and head of the banquet arrangements.

Since the capacity of the Ebell clubhouse is only 250 places, the reservations are in much demand among the members of the Chamber of Commerce and their wives.

The unique feature of the affair is that only products grown or manufactured in Orange county are used and these are donated in whole or in part by a large number of Santa Ana and Orange county firms.

Dexter Principal Speaker
The entertainment program will be featured by a talk on community building by Dr. Walter F. Dexter, president of Whittier college and a well-known lecturer in Santa Ana. A group of Irish folk songs will be given by Leslie Gaze, well known tenor and famous for his role in "The Chocolate Soldier." He will be accompanied on the piano by his wife.

Mystic Clayton, stage and vaudeville psychic, will offer a varied performance. Mrs. F. W. Silbaugh will sing some vocal solos and S. H. Woodruff of Hollywood and Dana Point, will present a short booster talk on Orange county.

Music during the banquet will be furnished by the Doc and Ray Duo, assisted by Dolly Fowler, and Mrs. Ione Tunison Peak, pianist. W. C. Jerome, former president of the organization, will provide as toastmaster.

A limited number of reservations are still available and may be secured by telephoning the Chamber of Commerce office.

Reassuring Co-operation
The firms co-operating with the chamber of commerce by contributing products are as follows: Excelsior Creamery company, individual bottles of milk; Santa Ana Soda and Bottling works, individual bottles of fresh lime rickey; Kilpatrick's bakery, napkin rolls; Jackson Ice Cream company, individual cups avocado ice cream; King Kelly Preserving company, of Garden Grove, orange and grapefruit marmalade; Roehm-Sylvester company, after dinner mints; Weber Baking company, finger rolls.

Ratt's Sanitary dairy, cottage cheese; Smart and Final company, Ltd., Orange Blossom coffee; Baker's bakery, special cookies; W.

Duties of City Judge Explained To S. A. Voters

The office of City Judge which is to be filled at the election April 13th, 1931, is in fact the same as City Recorder.

This Court has jurisdiction of misdemeanors alleged to have been committed within the City and in cases of alleged violation of city ordinances.

In 1930 there were 1508 cases filed in said court and fines were collected amounting to more than $18,000.00. More than half of these cases charged violation of parking regulations and the others charged such offenses as disturbing the peace, intoxication, possession or sale, etc. Many of these cases were tried by the court where neither the people nor the defendant had counsel and the duty devolved upon the court to examine the witnesses, draw out the facts and apply the law. Many cases where the defendant had plead guilty it was just as necessary for the court to examine the witnesses and weigh the evidence in order that a judgment might be entered imposing a punishment fitting the degree of the offense. Defendants are entitled to this consideration by the court, and it would seem that some legal training would be helpful in drawing out these facts.

The talk that has been indulged in by some persons both on the street and elsewhere, that courts that impose greater punishment in some cases than in others, where the same offense is charged in the complaint, are partial and unjust, indicates a failure to comprehend the meaning of the law. The law provides, for instance, that in conviction for misdemeanor where no other punishment is prescribed, the defendant may be sent to jail for not exceeding six months or fined not exceeding $500, or by both. This provision is intended to give the court a latitude that it may prescribe a punishment commensurate with the degree of the offense as shown by the evidence, and is provided in all cases for the enforcement of all statutes and ordinances.

It is confidently believed that the voters will take these facts into consideration in selecting the City Judge of the next four years.

Judge John F. Talbot desires the voters to consider all of these matters but in any event wishes every voter to participate in the government of the City by voting on election day.

H. Booth and company, chili con carne; Southern Meat company, Anaheim meats; Dutton Pie company, cup cakes; Ketter's cafe, assorted candies; Utt Juice company, individual bottles tomato juice; N. B. Hendricks, fresh fruits and vegetables; Greenville Bean Growers' association, lima beans; Holly Sugar corporation, table sugar; Washington bakery, Camm's Avocado bread.

Floral decorations will be furnished by Aming brothers, Morris the Florist, the Bouquet shop and Blanding nurseries. The favors on the banquet table will be furnished by the Barr Lumber company, W. H. Booth and company, Weber Baking company, J. A. Gajski Furniture company, Smart and Final Wholesale Grocery company, Ltd., Nehl Bottling works, E. K. Wood Lumber company and Segerstrom Soap company, of Anaheim.

BROTHER TOM WILL PREACH IN ANAHEIM

"Brother Tom" Liddecoat, prominent social worker of Los Angeles and founder of the Midnight Mission, will deliver a sermon every night during the coming week at the White Temple Methodist church in Anaheim, church officials announced today.

The programs will commence Sunday evening and continue nightly until Sunday, April 12. A varied program of music has been arranged to precede each of his sermons and includes the White Temple combined choir on Sunday, K.H.J. chorus of All Stars on Monday, Firemen's band and orchestra of Los Angeles on Tuesday, Anaheim high school glee club on Wednesday, combined glee clubs of the Los Angeles Christian college on Thursday, Fullerton Junior college glee club on Friday and Great Young People's chorus choir on Saturday. Liddecoat has attained success with his work with the Midnight Mission in Los Angeles and over 800 men are fed and given a bed each night free of charge.

An Open Letter to Mr. Firestone Whose "Mail Order" Tire Are You Talking About?

... Here is a Correct Price Comparison ...

of Montgomery Ward & Co. Tires with Firestone Tires

Ward's Trail Blazer and the Firestone Oldfield are similar in quality—Compare

Ward's 4-PLY Riverside is similar in quality to Firestone's Gun-Dipped High Speed. Compare

Ward's 6-PLY Riverside is similar in quality to Firestone's Gun-Dipped High Speed Heavy Duty. Compare

Not all sizes have been listed—but enough to give an idea of how prices compare.

Ward's Always Sells for Less

Dear Mr. Firestone:
Above, we reproduce part of one of the many advertisements appearing throughout the country, in which Firestone tires are compared with "a mail order" tire... Montgomery Ward & Co. is the oldest mail order house in America. So when you say "mail order," many people naturally think first of Montgomery Ward & Co.

But—the specifications of the "mail order" tires listed in Firestone advertising fall far short of the specifications of Montgomery Ward & Co. tires... You have also stated in your advertising that "a mail order tire is made by some unknown manufacturer..." Ward's tires are made by one of the largest companies in America... a company, in fact, that is larger than your own company, Mr. Firestone... Furthermore, your advertising says "Compare prices." You compare Firestone prices with "mail order" prices. Montgomery Ward & Co. states emphatically that your advertising does NOT make a correct comparison between Ward tires and yours, in either quality or price. But the table at the left DOES.

The Firestone advertising lists three grades of tires—Counsell, Oldfield and Super-Heavy Anchor. Your Counsell, Mr. Firestone, is what is known in the trade as a "third line" tire. Montgomery Ward & Co. does not sell a "third line" tire. Your Oldfield is what is known as a "second line" tire—it compares in quality with our TRAIL BLAZER. Your Super-Heavy Anchor is also a "second line" tire—but is a quality which we do not sell... OUR BEST TIRE IS OUR RIVERSIDE. The Firestone advertising does not list a tire equal in quality to our Riverside—in the table at the left however, we list Firestone tires that are equal in quality to our Riversides and show how the prices compare.

In view of these facts, Mr. Firestone, we ask that in the future you state whose mail order tire you are talking about.

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.

Mr. Auto Owner
Quality for quality, there are no better tires made than Ward's Riverside and Trail Blazer. Furthermore, they are backed by the famous, superior tire guarantee ever written. And they sell for LESS than other tires of equal quality. Stop into Ward's store and see for yourself. COMPARE before you buy.

INQUEST FOR GEO. SEWARD, AUTO VICTIM

An inquest was scheduled for this afternoon at McAulay and Suters chapel in the death of George L. Seward, 63, 123 East America avenue, Fullerton, who died shortly after being struck down by an automobile on West Commonwealth avenue near Woods avenue yesterday at 3 p. m.

Seward had stepped out of his car on to the highway across the street from an orange stand where he was planning to purchase some oranges when a car driven by Donald James Magee, 18, 512 West Santa Fe avenue, struck him. Magee, in attempting to avoid hitting Seward swerved into a telephone pole and his car was badly damaged.

Two occupants in Magee's car, Marjorie Magee, 15, a sister, and Lucille McHenry, 17, were slightly injured by broken glass and were treated at a doctor's office.

Seward received a fractured skull, internal injuries and broken limbs and was said to have died while being taken to the Fullerton General hospital in an ambulance. Tire marks for more than 100 feet leading up to the rear of Magee's car showed where his car had traveled.

Seward was employed as night watchman at the Brown and Dausser Lumber company of Fullerton, and had lived here for eight years. He had no immediate relatives.

Magee was not held by the Fullerton police.

KNIGHTS OF ROUND TABLE HEAR REINIUS

Observing the spirit of Easter with an appropriate program, the Knights of the Round Table enjoyed the regular meeting Friday noon at Ketchers cafe which was prepared by Harry Warner and Leslie Pearson.

The speaker was the Rev. Otto Reinius of the Richland Avenue Methodist church, a member of the club. The Rev. W. H. McPeak of the United Presbyterian church was a special guest and a quartet from his church offered several selections. The members of this group were Mrs. Mary Steffenson, Miss Laura Joiner, Clifford Johnston and C. J. Watters.

A. C. Hasenjaeger, vice-president, presided over the meeting in the absence of A. A. Brock, president. Otto Knudsen, of the Redlands Round Table and district governor, was introduced by the chairman and the announcement was made that the district convention would be held in Long Beach on April 18.

CANDIDATE W. S. Decker who is making race for office of city trustee of the third ward.

DECKER GETS IN RACE FOR CITY COUNCIL

Declaring that he believes in working for things which will advance the city of Santa Ana, and pointing out that he is not allied with any group and has made no promises to any individual or organization, W. S. Decker, of 922 South Main street, candidate for city council from the third, today formally announced his candidacy.

Decker was building inspector here for nine years, retiring from the position in November of 1927. Before becoming inspector he was in the contracting business in Santa Ana, engaging in this line of work from 1914 to 1921.

While a contractor he specialized in residence construction, many of the fine homes of this city being erected under his direction.

Is Active Mason

Decker is a member of the various Masonic orders of Santa Ana, becoming a Mason in 1904 in this city.

Decker came here in 1897 and has resided here since that time.

After leaving the office of building inspector, Decker acquired the service station business at 825 East Fourth street. He owns his home on South Main street and also owns a lemon grove near Yorba Linda.

"I am not making any promises to anyone in this campaign," Decker said today. "I am interested in anything that will promote the welfare of the community and if elected promise to see that the best interests of the people are cared for."

REWARD ON EARTH

STOCKHOLM—Those who do not take the Lord's name in vain may receive their reward in heaven, but Mrs. Margaret Helmann, native of Fresta, wants them to be rewarded on earth, too. She has set aside an endowment fund of $18,500 to be distributed among those who are known never to have used profane language.

REALTY BILLS NOW PENDING. ARE EXPLAINED

Outlining his work as real estate commissioner of California and voicing an optimistic outlook for business conditions, Joseph Smith, former realtor of Santa Ana, spoke before the Santa Ana Realty Board at the regular meeting Friday noon at Ketchers cafe.

Smith was recently appointed by Gov. James Rolph Jr. to the post of real estate commissioner and has been in Sacramento since that time. He thanked the Santa Ana and Orange county realtors at the meeting for their support previous to his appointment and assured them that he had the interests of the county at heart and would continue to live here.

Explains New Policy

The speaker explained several bills now pending in the legislature regarding realty conditions, one of which makes it necessary to take a written examination for a state license. He told of his new policy in giving tests and said that three standards were being watched, familiarity with the real estate act, knowledge of legal terms and personal citizenship. He also discussed water conservation, the necessity of spending money to drive away hard times and the rigid policy of his office against fly-by-night subdividers.

PROGRAM HELD BY BEACH CITY EBELL GROUP

NEWPORT BEACH, April 4.—Radio and stage artists entertained members and friends of the Ebells club Thursday afternoon. Ruth Shane Rodecker, of Long Beach, vocalist and reader, delighted with several vocal selections and readings. Mr. Isnor played the piano accompaniments and also piano solo numbers.

The Meghlin children, Betty and Shirley, child stage artists, gave a group of unusual tap dances. Preceding the program and business meeting, a luncheon was served at the yacht club.

The following hostesses served tea and waters at the close of the club meeting: Mrs. A. J. Garfield, Mrs. C. A. Martin and Mrs. C. J. Rodgers.

The April 16 meeting will have a special feature, a floral display. The program will be in charge of the Visel studio of Santa Ana. Mesdames A. H. Wilson, K. G. Baum and E. C. Remington will be the hostesses.

ARMY DAY WILL BE OBSERVED MONDAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 4.—In a special announcement sent out from national headquarters here, Paul C. Wolman, Baltimore, Md., commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., calls upon all units of this organization for appropriate recognition of Army day, which will be celebrated on Monday, April 6, the 14th anniversary of America's entrance in the World war.

The annual observance of Army day on April 6 was inaugurated some years ago by the Military Order of the World War, an organization composed of officers of the army, navy and marine corps who served either in the regular establishments or as emergency officers during the World war. This organization is headed by Gen. John Ross Delatfield, of New York City, as its national commander.

Vaughan Four To Entertain Bible Students Sunday

The Vaughan Radio quartet, which has been singing in Santa Ana in connection with pre-Easter services conducted by the Church of the Nazarene, will appear Sunday morning before the Men's Bible class, meeting in the Fox West Coast theater.

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene here, will present the class lesson.

Other features of the musical program will be presented by George Evans, violinist, accompanied on the pipe organ by Paul LeBar. They will play "The Holy City." Ingham's eight-piece band will be heard in several numbers.

The meeting will be open to women and no charge will be made for admission.

To the Voters of Santa Ana:

Yesterday we discussed your taxes and presented the figures on the rate of taxation for our city, and showed you that, while your total tax rate had raised 35 cents, your city tax rate had actually decreased, owing to savings along various lines.

Today we want to discuss with you the question of your water service, which is another department, and a very important department, of the city government.

Our total operating expenses for the supply of water to the city of Santa Ana have decreased in amount from four years ago to this year.

Four years ago the total amount of money spent by the city was ..... $74,681.42

This last year, the total amount was ..... 60,649.98

This makes a total saving in operating expenses of ..... 14,031.44

You may say that $14,000.00 is not a great deal of a saving, but it is a saving of nearly 20 per cent on operating costs this last year over four years ago.

In consequence of this, we were able and did save you on your bill directly 25 cents per month, or $3.00 per year. This would make a saving for the 8,392 paid services of $25,176.00.

May we suggest that in total salaries there was a very marked reduction.

Four years ago the salaries account was ..... $17,714.92

This last year there was paid in salaries ..... 14,695.00

This makes a total saving of ..... 3,019.92

Some may say, "Yes, the wages were decreased." This is not true. This was done by so conducting the work as to produce the results with a fewer number of men.

In outside labor there was also a very marked decrease.

Four years ago the total amount paid for outside labor was $37,221.90

This last year the amount paid was ..... 26,816.06

This made a difference in saving of ..... 10,405.84

In fact, there has been a decrease in every item with the exception of the item of electric current, and that increase has been due, first, to the use of electric power in cases where we formerly used steam with gas for fuel, while in part it is due to the larger amount of water pumped last year over either of the three preceding years.

As a matter of fact, the total amount of water was nearly 15 per cent greater than it was four years ago, and even at that the total increase in electrical power last year over four years ago was slightly over $1,000, namely, $1230.88.

Besides this, there has been an increased service rendered the water consumers in the way of locating leaks, pipe noises, or any other trouble occurring. This has saved the consumers many dollars in the course of a year. Obsolete meters have been replaced with new ones. Besides this, there are 2,000 meters which have been completely overhauled and rebuilt.

We would remind you also that there have been no bond issues for the Water Department for a number of years. Out of the income of the Water Department there have been the following improvements, without any additional cost:

Elevated Water Tank ..... $74,829.17

Bristol Street Plant ..... 21,712.57

New Lines ..... 27,431.80

New Well at Walnut Street ..... 15,000.00

Equipment ..... 5,286.72

Electrical Change-over ..... 2,991.35

Water Softener ..... 1,200.00

Making a total of ..... $148,451.61

Bear in mind that all these improvements have been met and these expenses met and reductions made besides meeting the interest and the amount required for the redemption of principal. This amounted last year to $22,000, which heretofore has been an amount added to your tax bill.

So as to summarize all this water service, these improvements have been made, some of them in the way of making up for depreciation, other distinct improvements, adding to the capital invested and at the same time it has been so conducted as to cut down the payments from the individual water consumers to the amount of $25,000 a year. Could any greater evidence be given you of the constant faithfulness of your servants in looking after your welfare?

If you had a manager of your personal business who was able to make a report as this, would you fire him and hire an inexperienced man in his place?

You know the general tendency is certainly to use up the income and when it is in excess of absolute necessary expenses frequently to increase wages or create expenses so as to absorb the income.

In conclusion, we would like to have you keep these figures and the figures of last night and the figures we will later submit to you, so that you can have them to read over again before you go to the polls.

Bear in mind also, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, that all of these figures we are giving you, are taken from our records, the books containing which are open to every voter in the city of Santa Ana, and you are welcome to study them to learn concerning the accuracy of these figures and any figures, and we will give you what aid we can.

Watch for the next installment next Tuesday.

CITY COUNCIL:

F. L. PURINTON, STANLEY E. GOODE, J. L. McBRIDE,
W. J. KELLY, B. O. SUTTON.

John Knox Will Speak Over KREG on Local Issues Monday Night

The accompanying cut is that of John Knox, candidate for City Trustee from second ward, who has made special arrangement to talk over KREG Monday evening at 7:15, at which time he will explain his reasons for becoming a candidate, also giving his views on some of the major matters as he sees them, relating to the obligations connected with this office.

Mr. Knox is running what is known as a one man Campaign, not making too much of a campaign at that; as he has not and will not connect with Group, Organization, or persons to whom he will be under obligations except the Voters, Citizens and friends who have elected him should he be successful at the polls on April 13th Election.

TO THE VOTERS OF SANTA ANA

While I am endeavoring to make a personal campaign for the office of City Recorder, I find, because of the limited time, that it is going to be impossible for me to meet with each individual voter. I am, therefore, taking this means of letting you know that I shall appreciate your support at the polls.

I stand for law enforcement, including the Eighteenth Amendment, and equal rights for all and special privileges to none.

Yours very truly,
JOHN G. MITCHELL,
Candidate for City Recorder.

A SERMONETTE

BY REV. CECIL M. AKER

PASTOR SPURGEON MEMORIAL METHODIST CHURCH

"If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable"

1 Cor. 15:19

"If in This Life Only We Have Hope in Christ, We Are of All Men Most Miserable."

1 Cor. 15:19

A year or so ago the following story was related in one of our American magazines: "When I was a little girl my father took me to a great factory where table silver is made. The memory of most of the processes has faded from my mind, but there persists the picture of a gray-haired man on a high stool, bent over a table. A row of silver forks lay at his left hand. One after another he took them up, worked on the handle with some tiny tool, and then put them down in a row at his right. Another man came with a tray and more forks, arranged them carefully at the left of the gray-haired man, and then carried the finished ones away. The guide whispered to me, 'That man has been putting the pattern on the handles. Watch him!' And, sure enough, a delicate little stem curved up the left side of the fork and around the top, with tiny cut-in blossoms and curving tendrils. The guide continued, 'That man is quite deaf. We used to take him off this pattern, but he never did any other quite so well, so now we just keep him on this one. He has now been doing it for forty years—fork after fork for forty years.'"

This is not an exceptional life as we find it among millions and millions of our fellows who with each returning day must take up the round of monotonous duties. Unless somehow there can come into such lives an inspiration that what they are doing here is linked with a life beyond it is a miserable plight in which at least a vast majority of our fellows find themselves.

And our agnostic philosophers give us no relief. One of the most widely read and interesting of our modern thinkers is Dr. Bertran Russell, who gives up his pessimist view of our lives on this planet as follows: "Brief and powerless is man's life; on him and all his race the slow sure doom falls pitiless and dark. The life of man is a long march through the night. One by one our comrades vanish from our sight, seized by the silent orders of omnipotent Death."

There you have it by one of our most brilliant agnostic philosophers of our present time. At the opposite pole of thinking stands this great Apostle to the Gentiles. He has found a relief from the darkness in the fact of the resurrection of Jesus from the dead. He declares, "If Christ be not risen our faith is vain. If in this life-only we have hope in Christ we are of all men most miserable." How deep, dark and fathomless the abyss of negation and unbelief. It was this that caused a learned Scotchman to give as the reason for his turning to Christianity, "Just one look into the dark without Christ was enough to make me a Christian."

Who has an imagination vivid enough or a gift of expression adequate to paint what this old world would have been had it not been for the resurrection of Christ from the dead? If he had mouldered back to mother earth in that new tomb at Jerusalem as others have done? One thing is certain, there would have been no glad Easter day. There would have been no New Testament for us to read. Every man who wrote a page of it wrote it with a heart throbbing with joy over a risen Christ. There could have been no such thing as a Christian church. Its presence in the world to lead the forces of righteousness and to bless our lives with its holy ministry is due to the fact that Christ arose from the dead. But for this fact there would be no hope of meeting our loved ones again.

Paul adds to the list of shocking suppositions that would inevitably follow if Christ be not risen, this last: "We are of all men most miserable." He had gone out with his tent-making tools upon his back, preaching this gospel of a risen Christ, suffering bitter persecution at every turn until he was finally beheaded by Nero. What could have induced a man like Paul to endure the hardships of such a life except the consciousness that the Christ he worshiped and for whom he wrought was alive?

Shall we not go forth from this Easter time with increased joy even amid our daily round of monotonous duties; shall we not endure our burdens of sorrow and sufferings and, if need be, death itself, with the joy of the Easter faith that, because He lives, we, too, shall live?

"Glad Easter unto Easter
It's own blest radiance gives,
And myriad hosts repeat the cry,
Our Lord and Master lives."

Hundreds Expected For Easter Sunrise Services

PAGEANT AND CANTATA TO BE GIVEN SUNDAY

ORANGE, April 4.—Incense from the thousands of orange blossoms in the valley below, choirs of feathered songsters singing to greet the dawn of Easter morn, a flower covered hill sloping toward the rising sun and a great cross on the hill top, will bring the significance of Easter to the hundreds who are planning to attend the sunrise service on Orange Heights Sunday.

The Rev. S. M. Eldsath will preach. This service will be the initial one of many arranged here with "Christ is Risen" as their theme. A number of the churches of the community are to unite in the early morning worship and services in the various churches are to follow at the regular hours observed on other Sundays.

First Baptist Church
At the First Baptist church the topic of the morning service will be "The Meaning of Easter to Jesus," and the pastor of the church, Rev. Franklin H. Minck, will be the speaker. Mrs. Walter Kogler will sing the solo, "Easter Morn."

In the evening the cantata "The Easter Message" will be given at 7:30 o'clock. The choir will open the program with "Ride On In Majesty." Miss Irene White will give the solo. The women's chorus will give "Our Hope Lies Dead" followed by the men's chorus with "Your Lord Shall Rise." The choir will sing "The Lord is Risen Indeed."

Miss Melva Fletcher and Mrs. Leon Des Larzes will give the duet, "I Know My Redeemer Lives," followed by the choir number, "Now is Christ Risen" with the solo parts sung by Burton Alloway and Mrs. C. A. McGill. "We, too, Shall Rise" will be a duet by Floyd Owings and G. W. Wells. "Our Advocate With God" will be given by a quartet composed of J. D. Rossier, Mrs. Clarence Todd, Randall Bivens, Melva Fletcher. Mr. Rossier will sing a solo part. The choir will sing "Thanks Be To God" with a solo given by Randall Bivens.

St. John's Church
At the St. John's Lutheran church there are to be two services.

A German service at 9:30 a. m., and an English service at 11 a. m. The pastor of the church, the Rev. A. C. Bode, will deliver both addresses. Dr. W. H. T. Dau formerly of the Concordia university at St. Louis, Mo., will speak Sunday at 7:30 p. m. The Easter Monday service at 7:30 p. m. will be in English.

Immanuel Lutheran
At the Immanuel Lutheran church the 9:30 a. m. service is to be in German and the 11 a. m. service in English. At both these services the pastor will speak on "The Tomb of Christ, the Crucified, on Easter Morning." On Monday, second Easter Day, at 7:30 p. m., Dr. W. H. T. Dau, eminent theologian and preacher, formerly of Concordia university at St. Louis, Mo., and recently president of the Lutheran university at Valparaiso, Ind., will occupy the pulpit. Easter music has been arranged by the choir under the direction of the organist, E. T. Pingle. Easter at 7:30 p. m., the wedding of Miss Helen Prentiss and Wilmer Soest is to take place.

First Methodist Church
At the morning service at the First Methodist church, the pastor the Rev. W. B. Cole, will give a brief Easter message and the musical program is to be in charge of the adult choir with Miss Mae Kimball as the director. There is to be a reception of new members and baptismal services. In the evening the pageant, "The Tiddings" is to be presented.

First Baptist Church
The Rev. H. F. Shearer will preach both morning and evening and in the former service will have as his topic, "Our Risen Lord" and in the evening, "In Sight of Home—But Lost." Music is to be given by Mrs. Ida Lennell and Mrs. Lorraine Welch. Miss Ada May Visik, state officer of the Christian Endeavor society will be present and will sing at both services and will conduct the young people's meeting in the evening.

El Modena Church
"A Risen King" is to be the topic of the morning sermon at the El Modena Friends church, when the Rev. Joseph Reese will deliver the sermon. Special music is to be given by the choir. In the evening a union Spanish and American service is to be held, when the Rev. Nicholas Davila will preach.

Visitor Honored In Orange Home

ORANGE, April 4.—Mrs. G. A. Gates was hostess at a luncheon honoring her grand daughter, Mrs. H. L. Starmer, of Coffeyville, Kans. The table was decorated with roses from the hostess' garden. Plates were laid for the honoree and her son, Billy Pat; Mrs. Mary Parvance, Mrs. Grace Cleveland, Mrs. Julia Warner, of Tustin, Mrs. Gena Morgan and children, Clark and daughter, Dolores, of Buena Park, and the hostess.

During the afternoon pictures were taken. One group consisted of Mrs. Julia Warner, younger sister of Mrs. Gates' father; Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Gena Morgan, Mrs. H. L. Starmer, and Billy Pat. The other group consisted of Mrs. Julia Warner, Mrs. Gates, Mrs. Morgan, Mrs. Moody and Dolores. Mrs. Warner will be 91 years old in June and Dolores is nine months old.

ORANGE PASTOR GIVES SERMON ON GOOD FRIDAY

ORANGE, April 4.—The Rev. A. G. Webbeking, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church, delivered the sermon at the Good Friday service held last evening.

The pastor said in part: "The spiritual sign-post that points to Calvary reads: 'Behold the lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world.' John 1, 29. The message of the cross is: 'God so loved the world that He gave His only-begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life.' John 3, 16."

"We fail to catch the significance of Calvary's tragedy unless we behold the crucified one with the grateful acknowledgment. He was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities. The chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed. Isaiah 53, 5."

"There is room under the cross for every sin stricken soul who sees in the dying Jesus God's Son in the flesh, crucified for man's redemption. This is the spirit in which Good Friday should be observed. Man needs as much as ever before the old saving message of the cross, and that is why we, without any hesitancy or apology, urge our message upon the attention of all men. He died for us that we might live."

DINNER PLANNED BY WOMAN'S CLUB

ORANGE, April 4.—One of the more important events of the club year for members of the Orange Woman's club will be the dinner meeting Monday evening when husbands of club members are to be guests.

The speaker for the occasion is to be Col. Edward P. Bailey, who will speak on "The Great Australian Bush, Its Wonders and Mysteries."

Arrange Program For Aid Members

ORANGE, April 4.—The annual "Dollar day" of the Ladies' Aid society of the First Methodist church is to be held Thursday at the Epworth hall, when members of the organization will relate how they earned the dollar which they have contributed to the society. A needle work exhibit and sale is to be in progress and will open at 10 a. m. A dinner is to be served from 11 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. and the public is invited to share the meal.

The afternoon program has been especially arranged for the occasion and each circle of the society will contribute a part of the program. Mrs. J. R. Kenyon is president of the Aid.

Willing Workers Luncheon Guests

ORANGE, April 4.—Mrs. Ralph Lawrence of 249 South Olive street, was the hostess yesterday afternoon to members of the Willing Workers society. A delectable luncheon was served and a big birthday cake was cut in observance of the birthday of Mrs. Martha Stone.

Smith, and her grandmother, Mrs. Jeanette Endler, South Olive street. Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Jack are both teachers in the Beverly schools. Yesterday afternoon they were joined by Mr. Hooper and the group drove to Forest Home to spend several days.

L. King, of the Redlands Building and Loan association, was in the city this week looking after property interests. King owns cottages on East Maple avenue and other property here.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Evans, of Los Angeles, who have been staying at the Sunshine apartments, left this week for Needles, Calif. Evans has been employed on work in laying out the Santiago dam site and will be in charge of construction on the highway near Needles.

D. Andra, of Stafford street, Santa Ana, is to appear before Judge A. W. Swayze April 7 to explain why he was driving without an operator's license. Andra was involved in an automobile accident on the Olive boulevard yesterday. His car collided with a machine driven by Mrs. M. Anderson, of Olive.

Albert Sauberg, of Long Beach, was fined $5 in the court of Judge A. W. Swayze yesterday when he appeared on a traffic citation. He was arrested by Walter Meyer, state traffic officer.

Mrs. Lela Fisher will be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Biffle, of the Sunshine apartments, over Sunday. Mrs. Fisher was expected to arrive from Sacramento today.

Mrs. Harry Laurie, of 201 West Chapman avenue, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Nancy, motored to Pasadena Thursday and visited Miss Laura Nisson. Mrs. Laurie returned to Orange in the evening.

and Miss Nancy remained for the rest of the Easter vacation in the home of her friend, and was the honoree of a party held in the Nisson home Thursday evening. Miss Laurie and Miss Nisson are both former residents of Santa Ana.

Elmer Abbott, formerly manager of the Piggly Wiggly store of Orange, is employed at present at 418 West Fourth street, Santa Ana.

Mrs. Dave Richards was a guest Friday in the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Richards, 144 South Olive street.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kuechel and daughters, the Misses Virginia and Mildred, of Lindsey, are visiting this week in the home of Mr. Kuechel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kuechel, who live in northwest of Orange. The visiting Kuechel family will take Saturday dinner in the home of V. J. Stutheit at 1936 East Chapman avenue. Mr. Stutheit and Mrs. Kuechel, of Lindsey, are cousins.

Arthur Bivens, who is attending the university at Berkeley, is a week-end guest in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bivens, of 904 West Chapman avenue. Another guest of the home is Mrs. H. L. Starmer, of Coffeyville, Kas.

Fred Klahn, of 615 South Grand street, spent this week at Vista in San Diego county.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Higgins, of 484 North Lemon street, entertained guests from Los Angeles yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kiesel and children, Freddie and June, and Gordon Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bivens, of 904 West Chapman street, have as their house guest, Mrs. H. L. Starmer and son, Billy Pat, of Coffeyville, Kas.

Orlando Courtney returned home from a visit with his sister, Mrs. Avalon Fleming, and his new nephew, and relatives in Los Angeles last evening.

Mrs. C. W. Pulley, 629 South Glassell street, entertained with a dinner last evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Grierson and son, Ellick; Mrs. Frances Conner, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawrence, Mrs. H. M. Huff, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Sadie Sweet, Mrs. Theo Starkey, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Farwell, Miss Nellie White, Mrs. Angeline Courtney.

TWO SERVICES SCHEDULED FOR OLIVE CHURCH

OLIVE, April 4.—Easter Sunday will be observed by St. Paul's Lutheran church with two services Sunday morning. The German service will begin at 9:30 o'clock and the English at 10:45 o'clock. The Rev. E. H. Krelt will preach on the words of Paul: "Christ hath abolished death and hath brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel."

The Monday evening service has been cancelled in order to give the members an opportunity to hear the Rev. Dr. W. H. T. Dau at Immanuel Lutheran church in Orange Monday evening. The Rev. Dr. Dau is one of the most prominent theologians of the Missouri Synod Lutheran church, having held the chair of dogmatic theology at Concordia seminary until he was elected to the presidency of the Lutheran university at Valparaiso, Ind. Dr. Dau delivered the sermons at the noon-day Lenten services held in Los Angeles by the Missouri Synod Lutheran churches during this week.

Rancher Warns Of 'Hydrophobia Cat' In Orange County

ORANGE, April 4.—S. B. Edwards, well known rancher of this vicinity, reported today that a small species of skunk in the canyons is called the "hydrophobia cat" and that the little animal infects other animals he chances to bite with rabies.

The skunk never attacks persons unless they are sleeping, Edwards declares and no person was ever known to be molested by them when moving about.

Edwards says the animals are common in Oklahoma and some other states. They have the appearance of an ordinary skunk and are just about the size of an ordinary skunk.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

ORANGE, April 4.—Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Ingle entertained the O. B. club last evening at their home on Collins street. The house was decorated with flowers from the hostess' garden. A pot luck dinner was served and a pool was played during the evening. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Gena Morgan, 229 North Pine street. Members present were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bivens, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Richards, Mrs. Edd Windolph and Dorothy Avelscher, Mrs. Gena Morgan.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS TEACHES HUMILITY

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for April 5: Jesus Teaches Humility. Luke 14: 7-14; 18:15-17.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

Human nature is much the same in every age. It is only when it is touched with the glory of the divine that it rises above its common level.

The highest things in human character and achievement do not come by chance. They are not merely the result of a kindly disposition or a favorable mood. They come, rather, through vision and discipline and the exercise of will and conscience.

Man does not rise high without an ideal. It was the mission of Jesus in the world to give man an ideal, to set before him the Kingdom of Heaven as a kingdom into which he could enter, now, adapting his life to the ways and ideals of that kingdom, living in all his relationships upon a higher plane than that of ordinary motives and courses of conduct.

Deals With Common Things
Here in the parables of our lesson, Jesus deals with the common things of human life, things that one can see and widely illustrated in daily life. He observed those who were invited to a feast, how they chose out for themselves the chief places and made a great deal of the fact that they were outdistancing somebody else.

Jesus rebuked such people on the ground of worldly wisdom, pointing out that this was a foolish practice, that instead of being asked to step down and take an inferior place, it was much better to take an inferior place at first and possibly the satisfaction of being asked to come up higher.

But the teaching that Jesus gave was not simply that of worldly wisdom; it was a deep spiritual message that he was imparting—the message that life does not consist of mere preferment and outdistancing somebody else in worldly recognition, but that, on the contrary, it consists of service, and that true humility is one of the greatest, as perhaps it is one of the rarest, of virtues.

The law of the Kingdom of Heaven, he suggests, differs so much from the law of the kingdoms of earth. Here honor and glory are the chief considerations, but in the Kingdom of Heaven character is the true asset, and in this Kingdom of Heaven "he that humbly himself shall be exalted."

Challenges Our Hospitality
The teaching of the true incidents associated in the lesson with this parable strikes even deeper. Jesus challenges the reality of a great deal of our social life. When we open our homes hospitably to others, he enquires what is the motive. Are we doing it to glorify ourselves? Are we doing it simply to pay back those who have invited us? Or are we inviting merely those who will make us some similar return? He says that if we could really have the satisfaction of the richest hospitality, we should find it in entertaining those who can make no recompense to us, that real blessing would come to the man who would make a feast for the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind.

Not many people test the reality of that plain and simple teaching, or if we do so, too often, as in hard times such as we are passing through at present, it is through the social medium of bread and soup kitchens, rather than through the direct and human contact of real hospitality. Perhaps some day the world may awaken to the richness of meaning there is in such simple teaching of Jesus.

SPECIAL MEETS OF FOURSQUARE CHURCH SLATED

Three Easter services will be conducted by the Foursquare Gospel church at Sycamore and Fairview streets on Easter Sunday. It was revealed by the Rev. Mildred Parham, pastor.

The first service will be held at 5:30 p. m. at Hovea park with five other Foursquare churches of Orange county assisting. Miss Dorothy Runyon, pastor of the Anaheim church, will be present to both sing and speak while the Rev. Ralph Cobb of Fullerton will lead the song service. The Rev. A. Shultz of Costa Mesa and the Rev. J. James of Garden Grove will both give talks. The service will be in charge of the Rev. Alice Wilson Parham of Santa Ana.

The morning service will start at 10:45 a. m. with the choir singing an Easter number and the sermon topic being "The Risen Christ." At 7 p. m. an Easter illustrated sermon will be presented with three large wooden crosses being on the platform, with a tomb representing the death, burial and resurrection of Christ. A special musical program is being arranged for the evening and the entire service will be broadcast by remote control over KREG.

Over 150 ministers from all parts of Southern California will attend a ministerial conference Monday, April 6 at the Santa Ana church. Three services will be held during the day, the first being at 10:30 a. m. with the Rev. D. V. Alderman, general supervisor for the Southern California churches, in charge. At 12:30 p. m. a chicken dinner will be served by the ladies of the home church. Dr. B. F. Guden, who has had charge of the 500 room in Angelus temple for the past six years, will have charge of the afternoon service at 2:30 o'clock, his theme being "Missions." The morning and afternoon meetings are for ministers only while the public is invited to the evening service, which starts at 7 p. m.

The Santa Ana band of 24 pieces and the united band of all the Four Square churches will open the meeting with a varied program. Dr. Charles A. Schrieve, assistant pastor in Angelus temple, will be the speaker and special music has been arranged.

Beach Party Is Held By Mesans

COSTA MESA, April 4.—Pranks peculiar to April 1 were enjoyed by a group of Costa Mesans Wednesday evening at Corona Del Mar. A welter roast was a feature of the evening.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. V. I. Cook and daughter, Norma; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Daniels and daughter, Florence; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Floyd and two sons, of Corona Del Mar; Mr. and Mrs. J. Herman and daughter; Mrs. Isabel Sawday, Ruth Newman, Leona Rutledge, Genevieve Howe, Mildred Pettigrew, Sylvester Rutledge, Jack Fuller, Ellis Mellott and Charles Adams.

When such conditions arise, a desire for harmony and progress for our city would indicate, at least to me, that we should elect new men straight down the line and renew, at least for a time, public confidence in our public officials. As a former city trustee, it seems to me the confidence of the public is now lacking without which no trustee can do his best work for his constituents.

The present council was elected at a time when prosperity was general, and we wanted improvements to attract new residents, but times have changed and conservative men and women are now curtailing expenditures to meet reduced income. The city should do the same thing, and not keep piling up bonds and special assessments.

Excessive taxes, bonds and assessments upon property force people to live in apartments and flats, and discourage the building of nice, beautiful homes like we want in Santa Ana.

Editor Register:

It seems to me that there is quite a lot of publicity being scattered around town about high taxes, desire for economic government, etc., mostly by people who like to believe that the world is again 'em anyway.

These people have the idea that the city officials don't know how to do anything but add more burdens on the taxpayers. Well, there is one instance where I would like to point out that the city council has lightened a burden for the taxpayers.

Very few people stop to realize what a little item like the 25c reduction on their water bill, made some time ago by the present city council, means in the way of a saving to the whole community. Let's just stop and figure it out. That 25c a month means a direct saving of $3 a year on every water connection in town. Upon making inquiry I found that there are about 8200 water connections operating at the present time. If we multiply the $3 saved on every water connection by the number of connections we find that the little old 25c reduction in the water rate has actually saved the taxpayers of this town nearly $25,000 a year in cold hard cash.

Don't forget that the present city council has made this saving possible and at the same time have added many major improvements to our water system.

If this doesn't represent progress with real economy then I want to know what it does represent.

GARDEN THEME FEATURED IN THIRD 'OUTDOOR' PROGRAM BY POPULAR RADIO ARTISTS

The third in the series of "Outdoor" programs broadcast by Josephine Durgan, assisted by Ruth Bower and Idabel Durgan, will have the garden idea as its theme. The broadcast will be on the air from 7:45 to 8:15 p. m.

Two vocal solos, "Daybreak," by Mabel Daniels, and "The Joy of the Morning," by Samuel Mann, by Josephine Durgan, lyric soprano, will open the program. The third number will be a whistling solo by Miss Josephine Durgan, entitled "Will You Remember," from "Maytime," by Sigmond Romberg.

Ruth Bower, pianist, will play a solo, "Country Gardens," by Grainger. Three vocal solos next will be presented by Josephine Durgan: "Thank God for a Garden," Del Rio; "Daffodils," by Sheerin; Bohal, and "Let Me Sit in Your Garden," by Kennedy Russell.

Idabel Durgan will present three readings carrying out the Easter theme: "There Was a Garden," by Mabel Barton; "Sowing the Seed," by Frost, and "An Easter Prayer," by Charles Hanson Towne.

Following a solo by Josephine Durgan, entitled "Moon-Enchanted," by Maurice Besly, she and Idabel Durgan will sing a duet, "In the Garden," by C. Austin Miles. The composition is a sacred one, given in recognition of Easter.

The Public Forum

Editor Register:

I have never pretended to be a political or governmental expert, yet I have lived a long time and I think acquired a little judgment and a little common sense, through many years of labor and business activity.

So as election time approaches again, perhaps I have a thought that might be of value to voters.

It is this: A man must have confidence in himself to become a success; customers must have confidence in a store management else it does not succeed; the public must have confidence in its public officers else harmonious co-operation and the right kind of progress is impossible.

When the public, or any great part of the public, has lost confidence in any one or group of public officials, it is time to make a change, for his or their efficiency is impaired and service to the public cannot be top notch.

It seems to me, in spite of some good work they have done, that a large part of Santa Ana has lost confidence in its present officials. Wrangles on the school board, arguments over school locations, and re-zoning and such things have not had a tendency to re-establish that confidence. Three thousand voters cast ballots against the city council a year ago—a concrete evidence of lost confidence, which, as far as I can learn, has not been regained.

When such conditions arise, a desire for harmony and progress for our city would indicate, at least to me, that we should elect new men straight down the line and renew, at least for a time, public confidence in our public officials. As a former city trustee, it seems to me the confidence of the public is now lacking without which no trustee can do his best work for his constituents.

BETTER YEAR PREDICTED FOR POULTRY OWNERS

SACRAMENTO, April 4.—Conditions this year will be favorable to the poultry grower.

Contrary to last year, W. E. Newlon, poultry specialist of the agricultural extension service of the University of California, considers 1931 a favorable year to enter into the poultry business.

"Poultry prices, in relation to the general purchasing power, are going to be good for the next two years," Newlon says.

For many years, Newlon points out, the poultry price cycle has moved in four-year periods; two years going up and two years going down. Nineteen thirty-three should be the top of the cycle again when the poultry industry will go through a less favorable position again, regarding general price levels.

"Although," Newlon continues, "it looks as though turkey prices are going to be lower this year than last year."

Regarding brooding, Mr. Newlon sets down five fundamentals for those who are engaged in the business and for those who contemplate starting poultry raising this year.

1. Secure clean chicks. It is preferable to get chicks free from pullorum disease, since even in white leghorns it seems to take from 5 to 8 per cent, which is only half the loss among heavy breeds.

2. First chicks in clean houses, those that have been mechanically cleaned and thoroughly disinfected.

A solution of 12 to 15 gallons of hot water and one pound of lye is as good a disinfectant as can be obtained. Put it on liberally, let it dry, and then go over the house with fresh water to clean out the lye.

3. Use clean litter. Any material is satisfactory. This must be changed every three or four days to obtain satisfactory results.

4. Feed clean feed in hoppers or troughs. Birds fed in this manner will lay more eggs with less mortality than when the feed is fed in the litter or on the ground.

5. Provide clean yards. If you have double yarding system, when the birds are taken out of one yard in the spring, allow that yard to be exposed to the sun all summer long without turning over. In the fall put in a crop and then let the chickens on it the following spring. Use a hard surfaced yard if you wish, but keep it clean.

6. Use clean water. Any material is satisfactory. This must be changed every three or four days to obtain satisfactory results.

POPULATION OF FARMS SHOWS GAIN IN YEAR

According to the "Agricultural Situation," a leaflet issued monthly by the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, the farm population showing an increase.

A recent survey of this bureau shows that the farm population during the year from January 1, 1930 to January 1, 1931, started to gain again. After losing ground during the last 10 to 20 years, the bureau estimates that on January 1, 1931, the farm population was 27,430,000 as compared with 27,222,000 on January 1, 1930, which is a gain of 208,000.

This is the first gain in 10 years and perhaps the first in 20. The probable reason for this increase in farm population is because less people left the farm to go to the city. Another feature is that the movement of people from towns and cities back to farms last year was the largest in any year from 1924 to 1930. Thus, while fewer people than usual left the farm to live in cities at the same time more people came from the cities to the farms.

This may be only a temporary unemployment impulse without any significant momentum back of it, but it may also be the start of a new era in which more people will return to the farm. Judging from the numerous requests for information at the Orange county farm advisor's office, many people from the towns and cities who are out of employment are looking to agriculture for a livelihood.

The study is being made by the citrus growers to determine the cost factors that effect yield and income per acre. It is, in fact, an efficiency study to assist the grower to analyze his production operations with a view to revising his cultural practices to improve net returns per acre.

The cost study is now in its sixth year and is revealing some very pertinent information for the growers.

SOIL MOISTURE DISCUSSED BY FARM ADVISOR

BY HAROLD E. WAHLBERG
County Farm Advisor

There are two reasons why spring irrigation should be delayed until soil conditions justify water application. First, an early irrigation on soil already moist reduces bacterial activity. Normal soil contains bacterial flora that makes available the plant food elements to the feeder roots. If the ground is unnecessarily chilled and the soil air driven out by excessive moisture applications, the minute soil life suffers from the shock and the decomposition processes are materially slowed down. Secondly, water is needlessly wasted during this time of water shortage, which is becoming more acute in Southern California.

The recent long period of dry weather has caused concern among citrus growers and is responsible for much premature irrigation going on at the present time. Hundreds of moisture tests made recently reveal that there is considerable moisture yet in the root zone of orchards located on loam and clay soils. The sandy soils, of course, have shown dry. Again, we want to emphasize the use of the soil auger, tube or shovel to assist the grower in determining the underground conditions.

It has been found advisable in some cases where the cover crop has been allowed to take the upper moisture to give a partial irrigation, in which half the furrows may be watered, or one side of the tree row, or ever other set of furrows.

Every means should be taken to only apply water where it is actually needed. Don't put water in moist ground. The new set of fruit will be more susceptible to drop under heavy irrigation than under slightly dry conditions. Each orchard should be treated according to its own needs rather than practicing what the neighbor is doing down the road.

Three field meetings will be held on April 9 and 10, in the Tustin, Anaheim and Placentia districts to discuss irrigation practice and other cultural operations. Announcement will be made later concerning the locations of these field meetings.

RABBIT FACTS PRESENTED IN RADIO SPEECH

(Editor's note: Following is a talk delivered over radio station KREG March 30.)

By C. E. DOWLESS
President, Orange County Rabbit Breeders' Association

The individual entering any branch of agriculture, either farming or livestock, should have at least a workable knowledge of the best methods of marketing his product. His success depends almost entirely upon his ability to market their output in the most advantageous manner. This is especially true in the breeding and production of rabbits for commercial purposes. The rabbit industry as a whole, through organization and individual effort, has attempted several ways of putting the product on the market. Only one of these plans, however, has met with any great measure of success. This plan is the one most commonly known to all the producer selling his output at his rabbitry live weight to the wholesale rabbit butchers, who in turn prepare the product for the retail meat markets and restaurants.

Doomed To Failure
Various co-operative rabbit marketing plans have been tried in different sections of the country, similar to those of other agricultural commodities but have met with little success, their failure being attributed largely to lack of support from the breeders themselves. Improper management, lack of sufficient capital and especially false enthusiasm has also helped to cause failure of the co-operatives, the breeder being led to believe that by joining the co-operative organization, his marketing problems were at an end and his profits would increase immediately and would continue in an unlimited manner. The natural consequence was that when these things did not materialize, the breeder became disheartened and withdrew his support from the organization. Failure for the co-operative was inevitable.

Any co-operative, so successful, must have sufficient capital to carry on its business in the face of competition both fair and unfair, a complete and intensive study of the field, the application of sound and tried business methods and competent management. A plan that does not incorporate these fundamentals is certain to fail.

Many Small Breeders
Due to the rabbits raised for market purposes is supplied by comparatively small breeders, that is, rabbitries operating with from 25 to 75 does, it is very apparent that the industry is not yet ready for a strong co-operative organization. So many of our breeders are operating on a spare time or side line basis, just keeping the number of head that they can take care of in addition to holding a regular position in some other line. It is a difficult task to attempt to organize the small breeders into any kind of a co-operative organization. Until such time as more producers start operating on a full time basis, we cannot expect any great measure of success from this source.

At the present time here in Southern California, the farm bureau in several counties are sponsoring and working out plans to hold a series of rabbit auctions. Briefly, the method of operation is: The producer will bring his stock to a centralized point in the county on an appointed date of the week or month. The rabbits will then be graded as to weight, color and quality and on the same day will be auctioned off to the highest bidder in lots of 50 and 100.

It is thought by many that the plan will be of benefit to both the buyer and seller, in that the buyer or butcher will be able to go to a central point for his supply each week, being able to secure the particular grade that his trade may demand. It is thought that this will cut the cost of pickup, thereby enabling him to pay more for his supply.

Incentive To Breeder
Due to the considerable number of times that the rabbit will be handled under different conditions in that one day, it is very likely that the shrinkage of the rabbit will offset any advantage that the buyer may have had in being able to pick up his supply at a centralized point. The benefit to be derived by the seller is that in the grading he will naturally receive more for No. 1 stock which he produces. If his production is largely No. 1 stock, he will not be penalized for the cull or No. 3 stock produced by himself or another breeder, as he would be if he received a flat rate, as is the case at present. It would be a great incentive for the breeder to increase the quality of his foundation stock. The entire plan of the rabbit auction is being patterned after the methods used in hog auctions in other parts of the state.

Experts Behind Plan
There are a great many details that will have to be worked out and probably the auction committee will find some conditions arising in the plan used in hog auctions as not applying to rabbits but a great deal of time and study is being devoted to the plan by competent men and organizations and its success or failure depends upon the support given it by both the breeder and the buyer.

One of the most serious problems we have confronting us in the successful marketing of rabbits is the peddlers of rabbit meat. We have at least two types of these. One is the breeder of a small number of rabbits who each week kills and dresses his supply of that week, which may range between one-half dozen to two or three dozen. He usually sells to a local butcher shop or two with whom he may do business. In most cases there is no uniformity of price, size or quality that is put on the market for the consumer public from this source. His butchering equipment is usually makeshift and strict sanitation cannot be practiced.

Murdering Industry
The source of supply is not reliable to the markets, the quality and sanitation is questionable and at the most the breeder only receives a few cents extra for his trouble and is seriously hurting the industry as a whole, which in turn must affect him as a part of the industry. Most of these breeders are honest in their opinion that they are marketing their output in a manner that will benefit them most in a financial way but if they would consider the amount of time and effort that it takes to butcher and sell their stock in this way, they would find in most cases that the extra cost involved more than offsets the extra profits.

The other type of peddler of rabbit meat, and by far the most serious, is the one who butchers several dozen or several hundred fryers and starts out with a basket under his arm making his rounds to the meat markets. The first part of the week his price will probably be one or two cents per pound above the current market price but as the week draws to a close he lowers his price and the last day or two if he has a supply left on his hands he becomes panicky and sells at any price to unload. Thus an inferior product as to freshness and quality is placed before the consumer.

Highway Selling
We have another plan of marketing of dressed rabbits and white

STRAWBERRY QUEEN CROWNED

She's the berries—and also queen of the strawberries, is Irvine Wilder, below, who received her crown at the annual Florida Strawberry festival at Plant City.

Strawberry Festival Is Held By Growers In Florida City

PLANT CITY, Fla., April 4.—The world has beaten a path to the door of this busy little southern community of 7000 residents, but it isn't a world seeking play and amusement and rest under a tropical sun. It is a hungry world with an epicurean taste.

It is here, the winter strawberry capital of the world, that millions of quarts of strawberries are handled while other berry patches lie idle, awaiting their turn as recipients of nature's favors.

As the gods of nature were honored in the harvest seasons of an older day, when grain was stored and the winter's food was hoarded, Plant City ceased its labors to do homage to the product of its rich, black, loamy soil, which has given it a national reputation as a strawberry center.

The second annual Florida Strawberry Festival, held at the height of the berry shipping season, grouped the products of East Hillsborough county under one roof. It is a symbol of the varied industries carried on in Florida, known as a winter playground, now displayed as a state where farmers, harvesting a $40,000,000 crop, are too busy to play.

PUREBREDS ONLY
The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that 17,466 livestock owners all over the country have filed declarations to use purebred sires only in all their livestock breeding operations.

It is not practical in cases where one is producing a large number of rabbits, it is being used by many small breeders, especially those living on a main highway or street. This is known as the door method, the breeder selling direct to the retail trade. It is true that he is eliminating all of the middle men and keeping all of the profits at his rabbitry, but rarely ever do we find a producer of any size able to dispose of his entire supply in this manner. He usually calls upon the wholesaler to handle his surplus or in plain words, his left-overs. This type of marketing is not doing the industry any harm and may in a few cases be of some benefit. As long as out laws permit it we will probably always have this type of marketing regardless of other plans that may be developed.

All persons interested in weeds and weed control are invited to attend. At this time special attention is to be given to the weeds affecting lands planted to tilled crops and to pastures, rather than to orchard weeds.

The program will include:

1. A brief survey of the weed situation in Orange county.

2. The principles of weed control, based on growth habits and plant structures.

3. The use of chemicals in weed control.

4. Weed spray equipment.

5. Weeds of special crops and areas.

6. The control of special weeds.

7. Regulatory phases of weed control.

8. The relation of farm practices to weed control.

WEED PROBLEM DISCUSSED BY STATE EXPERT

There is no one panacea for the weed problems of California, says Dr. W. W. Robbins, head of the botanical division at the University of California, who is the chief of agriculture at Davis. Professor Robbins has launched a campaign against the noxious weeds of California, a campaign which he says must be based upon education. With Walter S. Ball of the state department of agriculture, he has made a survey of the weed situation in California, and has outlined a plan for control of plant pests.

"We cannot place reliance in any one method of control," says Dr. Robbins. "We must combine all the forces we have—the hoe, the plow, the cultivator, the smother crop, fallow, crop rotation, flooding, browsing animals, burning, submergence, attacks, chemical spray. If we become committed to any one method and ride it as a hobby, we are doomed to considerable disappointment."

"Just now, chemical warfare on weeds is receiving unusual attention. It well deserves this attention; it has indeed given us renewed hope in the attack on weeds. In my opinion, the chemical method of weed control will find increased useful application; especially in this true of the western states, where there is much uncultivated land, levees, ditch and canal banks. We should offer encouragement to all those who in any way are experimenting with herbicides. However, we must use caution and care in the use of chemicals; we must be slow to recommend them for general use to farmers; they must be given very thorough trial under varied conditions before we wholeheartedly get behind them."

"In our enthusiasm for chemicals, let us remember that there may be circumstances when other methods are more advisable. I have seen a grower fighting with oil puncturing vines in alfalfa, when he should have plowed it up and put the area into a clean-cultivated crop. I have seen a farmer killing the weeds on his levees, when sheep would have done the work more cheaply. I have seen many farmers substituting chemicals for good farming practices—crop rotation, timely cultivation, clean cultivation. Weed control offers a most unusual opportunity for the co-operation of all those agencies which are behind better farm practices."

A one-day extension school on weeds and weed control is to be held under the direction of the Agricultural Extension service, April 6, in the Talbert school at 7:30 a. m.

Specialists on the program include Prof. W. W. Robbins, professor of botany at the University farm, Davis; and Walter H. Ball, weed superintendent of the state department of agriculture. A weed survey of the state was recently made by these two specialists. Ethelbert Johnson of the Orange county agricultural commissioner's office, and Eric E. Eastman of the farm advisor's office will represent the local agencies.

The program will include:

1. A brief survey of the weed situation in Orange county.

2. The principles of weed control, based on growth habits and plant structures.

3. The use of chemicals in weed control.

"CONNECTICUT YANKEE" OPENS ON SUNDAY

Ann Harding At Fox West Coast In "East Lynne"

Treat In Store For Matinee Audience

Santa Ana theatergoers who take advantage of the two for one show which starts at the Fox West Coast theater at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoons and see two features, have a particularly big treat in store for them this week.

The regular feature is "It Pays to Advertise," a comedy, then there is five acts of vaudeville and the special feature, which this week is "My Past," starring Bebe Daniels.

The story is the story of a girl, the men she has loved, the life she had led and the things she has done.

WILL ROGERS IS STAR OF TWAIN SHOW AT B'WAY

America's two greatest laugh makers are united for the first time in Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee" in which Will Rogers is starred by Fox Film.

Mark Twain, one of the world's greatest humorists in his day, has his modern counterpart in Rogers, who ranks as the greatest living American humorist and comedian. "A Connecticut Yankee" which will be seen and heard at the Fox Broadway theater starting Sunday, has long been considered one of the world's greatest satires. In the new version of the famous Mark Twain classic, Rogers starts out as a small town radio dealer. He delivers a battery to a mysterious mansion on the hill one stormy night. The owner of the house hopes to tune his huge radio set in on sound waves which have been battling around in the ether since the beginning of time. He tunes in on what appears to be King Arthur's Court. There is a terrific flash of lightning, and Rogers wakes up in the sixth century, right in the middle of the Round Table.

He narrowly escapes burning at the stake and then, through his native Yankee sagacity, becomes the prime minister. He introduces many novel improvements in the schemes of life of the ancients, including a service station for armored knights where they may be washed, polished, oiled and their rivets checked in a minute's time. Efficiency. That's the word.

His many improvements bring many screamingly funny situations and finally, Sir Sagramor, jealous of Rogers' popularity, challenges him to joust in the big tournament. How Rogers overcomes the burly knight is entirely too funny to spoil by revealing here.

Then Rogers becomes the unwilling hero selected to rescue the fair Princess Allsandro from the wicked Queen Morgan La Fay. He becomes involved in another series of adventures that climaxes in the most side-splitting laugh of the picture.

Rogers is surrounded by a capable supporting cast which includes Maureen O'Sullivan, Frank Albertson, Myrna Loy, William Farnum, Mitchell Harris and Brandon Hurst.

West Coast Vaudeville Sat., Sunday

Jim Evans, strong man, will feature the vaudeville show scheduled at the Fox West Coast theater starting today. Vaudeville will be seen at the theater only Saturday and Sunday of this week, but five big acts have been booked to show with the regular feature picture "It Pays To Advertise."

Evans has been in Santa Ana for the past several days where he has been on exhibition at the Schramm Johnson drug store at Fourth and Sycamore streets and his feats of strength have been seen by hundreds.

The Mantell Mannikins, advertised for the children, but which has as big an appeal for the grown up is another of the high class acts on this week's bill and other acts are: Joe Chapelle and the Raynor Twins in acrobatics and dances; Connie and Natalie in dances and Dunn and Hall, comedians.

CLARA BOW RETURNS

Completely rested after a month spent in the mountains and at the sea shore, Clara Bow has returned to her work before the cameras, at the Paramount studios in Hollywood. Her new picture is "Kick In."

HERE IN NEWEST FILM

Will Rogers, who as a knight of King Arthur's Court comes to the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow in his latest and funniest picture "The Connecticut Yankee."

OLD FAVORITE TO BEGIN RUN HERE MONDAY

All the world's great arts have been mobilized for service in Frank Lloyd's Fox Movietone production, "East Lynne," featuring an all star cast headed by Ann Harding, Clive Brook, Conrad Nagel, Cecilia Loftus, Beryl Mercer, O. P. Heggie and David Torrence. This romantic screen drama suggested by Mrs. Henry Wood's internationally celebrated novel, will have its local premiere Monday at the Fox West Coast theater.

History shares honors with the heart interest in "East Lynne."

Earlier in the production a brief sequence showing the bombardment of Paris by the Prussian forces is enacted. It is during this sweeping scene that Isabel, played by Ann Harding, is snowed under an avalanche of debris from a bombarded and falling building.

Music, too, plays an important role in "East Lynne." Richard Fall, famous Viennese composer of "The Dollar Princess" and other operettas and compositions, has written an original French martial air, a Viennese schottische and two waltzes. In addition he supervised the playing of famous classic compositions and the singing of "Then You'll Remember Me" by Miss Harding.

Joseph Urban, foremost designer of settings for stage and screen and architect of royal palaces and many of New York's finest structures, personally supervised the designing and construction of the sets in "East Lynne." These settings are representative of various moods of life in London, East Lynne, Vienna and Paris.

Sophie Wachner, America's foremost costume designer, the woman whose creations set the style for Hollywood's stars, supervised the making of no less than 56 different dresses and gowns worn by Miss Harding and 783 costumes worn by other characters and "extras" in "East Lynne."

Mrs. Hilda Grenier, former personal attendant for many years to Queen Mary of England, the former Princess Sofia of Germany and other European royal personages, was expert consultant to Director Lloyd during the making of "East Lynne."

CHATTERTON AT WALKER STATE ON TOMORROW

Everybody's favorite among the film celebrities has become "Anybody's Woman."

Ruth Chatterton has been "Madame X," "The Laughing Lady," and the Sarah of "Sarah and Son."

As "Anybody's Woman," which comes to the Walker State theater tomorrow, she is co-starred with Clive Brook in a play that is redolent of realism, a play that is drenched with daring drama.

"Anybody's Woman" is the story of the vagrancies of a misfit marriage. Brook plays a wealthy and cultured young lawyer, who, disappointed by the faithlessness of the wife who has just divorced him, goes on a prolonged binge in the metropolis.

At a cheap theatrical hotel he meets Ruth Chatterton, a broken-down show girl. During the progress of a wild party in which Brook is insensibly drunk, practical-joker companions manage to have Brook and Ruth married.

"Anybody's Woman" was directed by Dorothy Arzner, foremost woman director of Hollywood, who made "The Wild Party," "Manhattan Cocktail" and "Sarah and Son."

MAMOULIAN DIRECTS

Rouben Mamoulian, former New York Theater Guild director, is directing Gary Cooper, Sylvia Sydney and Paul Lukas in "City Streets" at the Paramount studios in Hollywood.

KIRKWOOD IS TO MAKE REAL FILM COMEBACK

James Kirkwood's comeback in the talkies has been given the final stamp of success—a long term contract with the Fox Film corporation. Mr. Kirkwood, who has been director, actor and associate producer during his long stage and screen career, was the fighting hero of many silent pictures laid in the outdoors. At present he is playing a principal part in "Young Sinners," in a cast headed by Thomas Meighan, Harold Albright and Dorothy Jordan.

Mr. Kirkwood was born and educated at Grand Rapids, Mich. He was on the stage 18 years before entering films. Some of his successful silent pictures were "Man - Woman - Marriage," "The Scoffer," "The Luck of the Irish" and "Marriage of the Underworld."

FOLLOW STAGE PRECEDENT

The precedent of having a composer rather than an actor play the song doctor role as set by the stage production in "June Moon," is being followed by the screen version, with Harry Akst in the part.

Joan Bennett Gets Long Fox Contract

Joan Bennett, the youngest member of the famous theatrical family, will be a Fox Film actress for several years to come under the terms of a new contract just signed. Her work in three pictures for Fox, "Crazy That Way," "Scotland Yard" and, recently, "Doctors' Wives," convinced officials that she belonged on the company's long term contract list.

Joan has risen rapidly in the movies since she played in "Disraeli." Almost since her first picture she has been in demand for leading roles. In "Doctors' Wives" she appears opposite Warner Baxter for the first time.

Fast Comedy Is Now Showing At Fox West Coast

Paramount brings a new kind of laugh-peg to the screen in "It Pays to Advertise," the romance-comedy which enlivens the fleeting moments at the Fox West Coast theater.

The play is based on the famous Broadway hit of the same name. Big names of comedy films provide the fun-interest.

Skeets Gallagher, Norman Foster, Eugene Pallette, Lucien Littlefield, Carole Lombard and Louise Brooks head the cast.

The story concerns the adventures of a rich playboy son of a soap-manufacturer who goes into the soap business for himself to show his dad he is capable of earning an independent income.

Marriage of Young Couple Revealed Here Today

Announcement was made today of an elopement wedding which took place March 8 near Lake Merritt in Oakland, when two well known young people of the city, Miss Ena White and Herbert Jackson were married. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White, formerly of this city but now of San Francisco, while Mr. Jackson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Jackson, 911 Highland street, Santa Ana.

For the occasion Miss White chose a picturesque frock of blue flat crepe, enhanced by touches of deeper blue velvet. With this she wore accessories of beige, and carried a bouquet of delicate pink roses. There were no attendants.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson returned to this city, and at present are making their home with Mr. Jackson's parents. Both the newlyweds are graduates of Santa Ana high school, and it was there that their romance started. Mr. Jackson is employed in this city. Prior to her marriage, the bride made her home with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Loving, 202 North Parton street.

Beach Church Will Afford Setting For Wedding

Southland circles are interested in a wedding which will take place tomorrow at St. Anne's church in Huntington Beach when Miss Lo Vell Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Smith of Huntington Park, and Frank Furtich, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Furtich of Hollywood will be married. The Reverend Father Ray will officiate.

In an appropriate setting afforded by the beauty of Easter lilies and the glow of many candles, the ceremony will take place. The bride has chosen the proverbial white satin gown for the occasion, with which she will wear a veil caught to her hair with a spray of orange blossoms. She will carry a bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. Wilma Mitchell of Southgate, will be matron of honor, and plans to wear yellow chiffon and carry roses of the same tint.

Margaret Furtich, of Hollywood, also will attend the bride, and will wear a green frock to be enhanced by a bouquet of orchid sweet peas. The bridegroom's brother, Fred Furtich, a member of the famous Biltmore trio, will serve as best man. Baby Helen Williams, wearing pale green, and Sunny Herman, of Hollywood, to be dressed in black velvet and white satin will be flower girl and ringbearer. The group will be completed by Burnett Stevens, of Long Beach, and Harry Lowe and Robert Louerach, of Los Angeles, as ushers. A reception will follow the ceremony.

The wedding will crown a romance which began at Anaheim Landing where the bride and bridegroom spent various vacation periods with their parents. The young couple have a home ready for occupancy in Hollywood.

Guest From Chicago Entertains Flying Needle Club

During a visit of several months in this city with the family of her daughter, Mrs. Adolph Erickson, 1041 West Sixth street, Mrs. S. J. Bippus of Chicago, has been extended many courtesies by members of the Flying Needle club to which Mrs. Erickson belongs. So Thursday, on the regular date of the club meeting, she returned some of these courtesies by entertaining at luncheon in the Erickson home.

Easter lilies were used throughout the rooms, and to center the table where an appetizing lunch menu was served, to the accompaniment of pretty favors, napkins and other appointments conforming to the Easter decorative theme. Places were indicated for the hostess, Mrs. Bippus, Mrs. Erickson, Miss Verena Bailey, Mrs. Bernard Snee, Mrs. Errol Barnes, Mrs. F. W. Bergendorf, Mrs. William Kintz, Mrs. Frank Brown and Mrs. Delbert Johnson.

In the afternoon of needlework, Mrs. Bippus was fortunate in securing the pretty prize awarded by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Bippus arrived from Chicago in early November to spend the winter and spring months with Mr. and Mrs. Erickson, but will conclude their visit this month. They plan to leave on April 20 for the long automobile trip back to their home.

Brief Prayer Service Observed at Y. W. C. A.

Joining in a reverent observance of Good Friday, representatives from the Business and Professional Women's club and from the Wrycende Maedenu club, met yesterday at noon in the Y. W. rooms for a brief program of music and prayer, arranged by the young women of the Wrycende Maedenu, with the co-operation of Miss Nancy Elder, Y. W. secretary.

Miss Carol Erskine opened the service with piano numbers, after which Miss Katherine Spicer, who had charge, led in the responsive reading, using a very beautiful service appropriate to the occasion. Robert Forney played violin solos with Miss Betty Smalley at the piano; Miss Agnes Todd Miller sang, with Miss Eva Ramsey as accompanist; Miss Spicer gave a reading, and the program closed with a special prayer in which everyone joined.

This service was introduced for the business women last year by Miss Elder, and will be continued as an annual observance of Holy Week.

GALAXY OF PRETTY GIRLS, MANY OF WHOM WILL BE AMONG SPRING BRIDES OF ORANGE COUNTY

Since Easter will be distinguished by an unusual number of attractive weddings, it seems appropriate to offer here, a group of popular Orange county girls, all but one of whom have been or will be, spring-time brides. In the center is Mrs. Cecil Hanson of 912 Kelson drive, Santa Ana, who, prior to her marriage on March 14, was Miss Ruffina Grochow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grochow, South Batavia street, Orange. Their marriage took place in the St. John Lutheran church, Orange, with the Rev. A. C. Bone officiating. At the upper right is Miss Beatrice Lang, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Lang, East Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, whose betrothal to Rudolph Severin, of San Francisco, was announced at a smart bridge tea given recently in the St. Francis hotel, San Francisco. At the lower right is Miss Hawthorne Hunter (photograph by Austin Studios), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hunter, 1019 West First street, who is being fated in honor of her April 29 wedding to Woodrow Barnett. Mrs. Lawrence Beiger (upper left) is formerly Miss Laura Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Viva Gossett, 725 South Parton street. The marriage of Miss Nelson and Mr. Beiger took place in Ventura in February, but was announced at the end of March. Miss Dorothy Penman (lower left) is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Penman of Tustin, and was installed recently as royal princess of the Blue Ribbon council of Sunshine Girls. She is senior class president at Tustin union high school, and plans to enter Pomona college next fall.

Reading and Musical Numbers Featured At Meeting

A charming interpretation of Italian dialect, in the form of a play by an unknown author, was given yesterday afternoon by Holmes Bishop at the meeting of the Music, Art and Drama section of the Ebell society held with Mrs. Charles Brisco, 421 East Bishop street. Much of the beauty and emotion with which the author imbued his work, was given new life by Mr. Bishop.

The early part of the afternoon was devoted to musical numbers by George Evans, violinist, accompanied at the piano by Miss Adelaide Proctor. After playing two numbers, "The Reverie" and Mozart's "Minuet," Mr. Evans and his accompanist played an encore, Beethoven's "Rondini," arranged by Kreisler.

During the social hour, when dainty refreshments were served, Mrs. Brisco was assisted in hostess duties by the section leader, Mrs. Holmes Bishop, and her daughter, Miss Velma Bishop. Mrs. Victor Montgomery presided at the tea urn. About 30 members and guests were present to share in the meeting, acclaimed by many as one of the most successful of the year.

Luncheon Held For Bridge Club Members

Entertaining in her home, 1141 South Van Ness avenue, Mrs. A. W. Sanford was hostess yesterday afternoon to members of the Friday Afternoon club. A two-course luncheon was served at small tables decorated with a profusion of spring blossoms.

In the bridge games of the afternoon, Mrs. Eugene Reif and Mrs. Roy Gowdy held first and second high scores. Special guests of the day were Mrs. J. H. Parker and Mrs. C. J. Baer.

Members present, other than Mrs. Sanford were Mesdames John Turton, E. T. Read, J. L. McBride, Jesse Wright, R. A. Couch, Eugene Reif, Roy Gowdy, Lee Boyle and George Cocking.

Musicians Have Dinner Party Before Program

Preceding their participation last night in a program broadcast over KREG, a little group of students of Miss Lorene Croddy held a covered dish dinner in her studio at 805 West Third street. A marked daintiness was noticeable in all appointments, with Cecil Bruner roses providing a floral background.

Those taking part, other than Miss Croddy were Cloy Francis, Miss Ruth Shiffer, and Edward Rogers, of Tustin; Miss Marian Brownridge, Miss Betty Paul, Miss Ruth Crowl and Duncan Harolds of this city, and Winfred Harrison and George Bonecutter of Orange.

Business Women Plan Interesting Events For Next Week

The coming week promises to be filled with interest for members and friends of the Business and Professional Women's club, for in addition to an unusually entertaining program scheduled for Monday at the noon luncheon in Ketter's gold room, the finance committee will present a bridge party on Friday night.

Monday's program, arranged by Miss Alma Sweet and her April committee, will introduce a most entertaining speaker in the person of Mrs. William F. Robbins of Williamsport, Penn., whose subject will be "Collector's Luck." Mrs. Robbins is in Santa Ana as the guest of her niece, Mrs. Arthur May, 909 South Birch street, and is a traveler and collector of note. Mrs. May, whose beautifully trained voice is one of the loveliest in the community, will complete the program with a song group.

Miss Martha Whitson, chairman of the finance committee composed of Mrs. Damaris Beeman, Miss Mayme Brightwell, Miss Elizabeth Perkins, Mrs. Marjorie Joplin and Miss Lula Ott, will ask the members to report on ticket sales for the bridge party on Friday night. The affair promises to be an unusually enjoyable one, and Mrs. Riggs has placed her spacious home at 901 Spurgeon street at the disposal of the business women, for the evening. Each member has been asked to be responsible for selling tickets for at least one table, and many parties are being arranged.

The finance committee will serve light refreshments at the close of the games during which interval, attractive prizes will be presented there among both men and women, making special scores.

Friends of the club and bridge enthusiasts who have not secured tickets for the event, may get them from any B. and P. W. member.

Pleasant Afternoon Shared By Members Of W. R. C.

Sharing the joys of Easter week with members of the W. R. C., Mrs. Annie Arnold entertained Thursday afternoon in her home, 405 South Birch street, and was assisted in hostess duties by Mrs. Margaret Culver. Several members were present to take part in the usual business meeting, conducted by the president, Mrs. Rose Diers. Other officers present were Mrs. Alice Yount, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Cassie Ferguson, patriotic instructor, and Mrs. Ella Wilson, chaplain. Those present regretted to learn that many members were unable to attend because of illness.

Following the business meeting, a social time was held, and tempting refreshments were served amidst a setting provided by fragrant Easter lilies and roses. Added to the floral motif of the decorations were bright-hued eggs, rabbits and fluffy chickens. Members present were Mesdames Rose Diers, Alice Yount,

University Women Will Discuss Card Party At Next Meeting

In sending out announcements of the April meeting of the Orange county branch of the American association of University Women, Miss Genevieve Humiston, corresponding secretary, called attention of the members to various spring activities in addition to the meeting date of Thursday, April 9.

This event will be held in the Santa Ana Y. W. rooms at 7:30 p. m. when the nominating committee will give its report in advance of the program. For the latter, Horace A. Scott of the junior college faculty, has promised to talk on the geology of the Sierras and Yosemite Valley, a theme that should be filled with interest for the University Women.

At the close of the program, Mrs. Merritt White has asked her various committee members to meet with her to confer on the bridge party to be given on Saturday afternoon, May 2, as a Scholarship Fund benefit. Mrs. White is general chairman of this function, which will be given in the J. Frank Burke home on Panorama Heights, through the courtesy of Mrs. Burke and her daughter, Mrs. Loyal K. King, an active member of the A.A.U.W.

The party will be open to as many guests as the University Women wish to invite, and table reservations may be made up to Wednesday, April 29, through Mrs. A. A. Young, telephone Santa Ana 3907W.

Mrs. White's various committees include, in addition to Mrs. Young, the decorations committee with Mrs. Robert Horn, Mrs. Ray Adkinson, Miss Mabel Miller, Miss Constance Cruikshank and Miss Mabel McEadden, Mrs. James Blew, Mrs. Ernest Byrne, Mrs. G. T. Gaylord, Mrs. D. L. Harpster, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. R. W. Hull, Mrs. Robert Korff and Miss Florence Lindblom comprise the refreshments committee.

The Misses Lota Blythe, Polly Todd and Frances Scarritt will have charge of the prizes to be awarded, while those in charge of tables will be Mrs. H. T. Walworth, Mrs. O. K. Anderson, Mrs. Ralph Livenspire, Miss Frances Knudson and Miss Mary Dunstan.

Sharing interest with the student loan fund, is the fellowship fund of the association, and in plans to increase that fund, the organization has secured the agency for the Holbrook blocks and toys. There will be samples of these shown at the meeting Thursday night, and the association, plans to introduce them to various stores of the county, thereby receiving a commission on all sales. Members of the association ordering any of the articles through the association, will receive a discount as well.

Cassie Ferguson, Kate Hendricks, Lottie Rittenhouse, Viola Phipps, Ella Wilson, Fannie Cunningham, Eugenia Harvey, Dora Spangler, Hannah Cunningham, and the hostesses, Mrs. Culver and Mrs. Arnold. Special guests were Mrs. Cora Adams and Mrs. Teresa Ryan.

Pretty Easter Party Given To Honor Little Lad

Although Master Bobbie Deane Smiley, little son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Deane Smiley, 2611 North Flower street, had no formal celebration of his birthday recently when he was just one year old, the fact was more than atoned for yesterday when his adoring grandmother, Mrs. Roy Beall, entertained at an Easter party for her only grandchild, in her home at 601 East Third street. Master Bobbie Deane's young mother was the former Miss Elizabeth Beall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beall.

The babies for they were little more than that—had a glorious romp on the lawn where the older children joined in merry games planned by the hostess. After an interval they returned to the house where an Easter egg hunt was introduced. After all the bright-colored eggs had been collected, the little people were seated at a pretty Easter table to enjoy Master Bobbie Deane's birthday cake with its single gleaming candle, and all the other inviting dainties prepared by the hostess.

The table was particularly attractive with its yellow dillies in harmony with the centerpiece where frolicsome small Easter animals depicted themselves. A fluffy yellow bunny drew a small wagon with a duck driver, while brilliant eggs and small yellow chickens completed the pretty effect. Chocolate eggs, each inscribed with the name of a small guest, served as place cards, while additional favors were individual baskets filled with chocolate animals and colored eggs.

While the children were being served, the little group of mothers who had come with the "Very Small People," enjoyed refreshments in an adjoining room.

Mrs. Beall's guests included, in addition to her daughter, Mrs. Smiley, and the happy little honor guest, Bobbie Deane, Billy McBurney, Jimmie Wharton, Mrs. Donald Dunbar and little daughter, Mary Louise; Mrs. Clifford Cole and children, Wendell and Joan; Mrs. Robert Wharton and daughter, Joanne, and Roberta and Chellena McBurney.

Sister Hostesses Join In Complimenting Their Cousin

Miss Mary Eisenbraun of Orange, who will sail April 25 for an extended European tour, was complimented at one of the week's delightful parties, when her cousins, the Misses Ruth, Linda and Stella Mueller were hostesses in their home, 502 Halladay street.

In the evening bridge contest, Miss Clara Bunke and Miss Betty Praemer made special scores and were presented with attractive gifts, while to Miss Eisenbraun was given the guest prize of a handsome little traveling clock to be used on her journey.

The travel theme of the party was cleverly worked in with the floral decorations when the sister hostesses served an appetizing refreshment course to conclude the enjoyable evening. Sharing their hospitality were their cousin, Miss Eisenbraun, Mrs. Walter Leichtfuss, Mrs. Albert Eisenbraun, Mrs. Erwin Eisenbraun, Miss Hertha Ehlen, Miss Lydia Dornseiff, Miss Helen Miller, Miss Clara Bunke and Miss Betty Praemer.

Miss Eisenbraun and her father, Emanuel Eisenbraun, of 628 East Chapman avenue, Orange, will sail from Los Angeles harbor on the S. S. Columbus, and will stop en route at Panama and Cuba. They will touch at New York and then proceed to Cherbourg and thence to Paris. Some time will be spent in France and Germany followed by Venice and the Mediterranean. They expect to visit Palestine and the Holy Land, Cairo, Alexandria and other points in Egypt, then return to points in Italy and Switzerland. In all they will be gone six months or longer.

Friendly Group Motors To Beach City For Bridge Party

Motoring to the home of Mrs. E. O. Conrad in Huntington Beach, a group of friends who enjoy playing bridge together, recently shared a pleasant evening. Quantities of pink roses and other lovely spring flowers were used to provide the floral background for the card contest. Mrs. Stanley Morgan and Mrs. C. Lewis made first and second high scores and received the prizes awarded by the hostess.

In serving the two-course supper, Mrs. Conrad replaced the card table covers with pretty linen cloths and centered each table with a slender pink taper.

Those sharing the hospitality of the Conrad home, were Mesdames Edwin Schick, Stanley Morgan, Earl Patterson, Ray Haynes, and Joe McKee, Santa Ana; Mrs. C. Lewis and Mrs. Fay Clapp, Huntington Beach.

Bridge Foursome Meets With Mrs. Ballard

A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed Thursday by a small group of close friends when Mrs. R. L. Ballard entertained at a pretty luncheon in her home, 2615 North Main street.

A profusion of carnations, sweet peas and larkspur were used in decorations throughout the home. Bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon and when scores were totaled, it was revealed that Mrs. Daisy McGee had won first place.

Those enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Ballard, were Mrs. Leland Eubank, Mrs. George Merriam and Mrs. Daisy McGee.

Santa Ana Young Man Will Marry After Foreign Tour

The departure recently of Albert Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Harvey, 1202 North Broadway, for several months of enjoyable rambling through European capitals, brought to light an interesting romance which is an "open secret" among his close friends.

This was the fact that soon after his return, Mr. Harvey will wed a charming Seattle girl, Miss Mollie Greeley, who is majoring in psychology at Stanford university. Miss Greeley, who belongs to Chi Omega sorority, was a member of a recent sorority house party in Balboa Beach, where the university chapter spent the spring vacation.

Albert Harvey graduated from Stanford last June, where he majored in economics. In leaving for the European tour, he was accompanied by one of his classmates. The two young men went by way of New Orleans and other southern and eastern cities, to New York where they were to embark for France, their first objective. They will be gone for three months or longer.

Pegasus Writers Give Variety of Storm Descriptions

Unusually varied was the program given Thursday afternoon at the meeting of the Pegasus club held with Mrs. George Bond on East Myrtle street, when "Storms" was the topic for the day. Mrs. Ray Brown opened the program by reading a paper on "Ponies and Storms."

A poem called "Storms" was read by Mrs. Fannie Lash, followed by an article "Hazy Dancer" read by Mrs. C. F. Jackson. Mrs. Walter Foote read three short poems, "Post Mortem," a story, "Ponies Time," was read by Mrs. Earl Morris, and Mrs. George Bond read two poems, "The Stronger Force" and "The Aftermath."

Miss Marjorie Lusk contributed a "Story of Three Storms," while Mrs. Frank was read three poems under one heading, "The Storm." Mrs. R. H. Winchester read a story, "April and a Real Snow Storm," followed by a story, "A Storm in Yosemite Valley" by Mrs. C. C. Fuller. A special feature of the day was a reading, "The Butcher Shop," given by little Winifred Brown.

Guests of the day were Mrs. Coates Leamer, Mrs. Pruitt, Mrs. Justus Blacher and Mrs. Hartong.

Sorority Girls Return From Laguna Beach House Party

Members of Tau Delta Phi sorority motored from Santa Ana Tuesday morning to Laguna Beach where they occupied the hospitable beach home of Mrs. Watts, 714 Poplar street, for two days. Swimming occupied the happy days for the girls, interspersed by a campfire on the beach held Tuesday evening, when they prepared their supper.

Those present included the Misses Virginia Robb, Violet Johnson, Edna Hall, Alberta Sanford, Frances Miller, Merrilee Rankin, Mildred Paul, Ramona Kenka, Louise Jerks, Lucille Howell, Gretchen Friaboe, Eunice Bright, Doris Rimmel, Maxine Decker, Kathryn Sexton, Leah Mae Laughlin, Maude Williams.

At Last! A New LOW PRICED Pattern in Sterling MISS ALVIN

This is the first time a new heavy weight pattern has been offered at prices directly reflecting the present record low price of bouillon.

"MISS ALVIN" is as the latest Paris gown... pattern harmonizing with the very best trend in design—the Miss Empire. It is unusually heavy, yet factly balanced. You can never guess the reality of this value unless you see and feel the merchandise—can you afford to miss this opportunity?

Legion Auxiliary

One of the most interesting events in the history of the American Legion auxiliary was a feature of the meeting held Thursday night in Legion hall, when 16 little girls were initiated as members of a Junior auxiliary.

Mrs. Edna Eklund, chairman of the membership committee, assisted by Mrs. Mabel Gowdy, in charge of the committee's work among juniors, were active in organizing the group, members of which are Betty Gowdy, Eileen Gowdy, Elizabeth Winbiger, Marjory Jeanne Johnson, Mary Juden, Mary Corey, Darlene White, Dorothy Skinner, Lucille Andrew, Dorothy Kolbe, Betty Kolbe, Mary Anne Sandon, Phyllis Sandon, Leona Lindgard, Helen Andrews, Mary Alice Eklund and Shirley Lelmer.

The little maids will hold their own meetings and will follow such activities as sewing, making scrap books, etc.

During Thursday night's senior auxiliary meeting, plans were completed for serving luncheon next Wednesday when the Exchange club will compliment Capt. Walter Hinton in a big general service club meeting in Legion hall.

A joint meeting of Legion post and auxiliary with covered dish supper was announced for April 16 at 6:30 p. m. Plans were discussed also for the annual Poppy day observance, the date of which will be announced later.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Brightening Up the House
These first bright days of spring have a mercurial way of showing up all the dingy places in our covered chairs and chandeliers to say nothing about the shadowy spots in the living room rug. Sending these things out to be cleaned is far too expensive for the usual family, so home renovation must be resorted to. The following formula will find excellent for renovating surface soil and brightening dingy colors in rugs and upholstery.

8 ounces household ammonia.
1/2 ounce chloroform
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon alum
1 tablespoon soda

Get a pint bottle and in it put the eight ounces of ammonia. Dissolve the salt, alum and soda in 1/4 cup of cold water and add to the ammonia. Take this to your druggist and have him add to it the half-ounce each of ether and chloroform. Cork tightly and keep in a cool dark place.

For the cleaning solution shave up a cake of castile soap and melt it in two gallons of water, cool partially, add from 3 to 6 tablespoons of the ammonia mixture and use it to sponge off the article to be cleaned. After the whole surface has been carefully gone over with the solution, wring a clean cloth out of fresh hot water and go over the same surface to take up surplus suds and soil.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Schaum Torte
6 egg whites
1 cup powdered sugar
1 cup fine granulated sugar
Pinch of salt
Whipped cream
Fresh whole chilled strawberries

The beating and baking heat are the two things to watch in making this dessert. Care must be used in both cases or the torte will fall during the baking.

Put the chilled egg whites into a cold bowl and whip until they are well frothed. Add now the salt and the granulated sugar, this latter to be added almost by tablespoons, with the beating going on constantly. After the granulated sugar is in and the mixture is getting stiff and glossy, do the same with the cup of sifted powdered sugar. In all, the beating must be done for 20 minutes, no more and no less. This allows the sugar crystals time to soften and dissolve.

The dish the torte is baked in is important. A spring form mould is practically a necessity, and a utensil you will find useful for many things. It costs about a dollar. Directions come with it for putting it together for the baking of tortes and things requiring a "well" for the holding of cream and fruit and with the torte.

Wipe the baking surface with melted butter, carefully drop in the egg mixture and bake in a slow oven 30 minutes. An angel food cake oven is the right temperature for the torte, and that is 300 degrees to start, reducing as the torte rises and begins to dry out. Let it cool in the form, unlock, turn out on a serving dish and fill the top with whipped cream and whole fresh berries.

A torte this size will serve 10 people. The individual total is almost 400 energy calories per portion.

TWO-IN-ONE DINNERS, the current leaflet, is offered free for the last time today. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the fine time and money saving plan of cooking.

Au revoir till Monday. ANN MEREDITH.

Miss Harriett Donahoe, head of the swimming at L. A. J. C.

Mrs. Mona Tuntland, accompanied by Misses Arline Farrell, Betty Gilbert, Call James and Margaret Adkinson, were guests at a picnic luncheon Thursday. Boating and swimming were the diversions of the day.

Mrs. Josephine Sheeley, of Park avenue, had as her guests Thursday, her sister, Mrs. Bertha Harper, and daughter, Margie, of Talbert, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Giesler, of Greenville.

Westminster

Mrs. Basse Hostess
Meeting for the second time, the newly organized bridge club was entertained Thursday in the home of Mrs. Fred Basse. A pot-luck luncheon was served at noon and the Easter motif was carried out effectively in the luncheon table decorations by the hostess.

Mrs. D. Everette Hall won the first prize of a lovely bowl. Mrs. Robert Hazard the second of a half dozen fancy wash cloths, and Mrs. Glenn Wells the consolation prize of an Easter basket.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. J. L. Esser at her home on Van Buren street in Midway City.

The club members are Mrs. W. A. Millholland, Mrs. Glenn Wells, Mrs. Basse, of Westminster; Mrs. D. Everette Hall, Mrs. Robert Hazard, Mrs. S. A. Miller, Mrs. Nelson Nelson, Mrs. B. L. Kirkham, Mrs. A. E. Holly, Mrs. J. L. Esser, Mrs. Ray Shureman, of Midway City; Mrs. Maurice Price, of Bolsa.

Skating Enjoyed
The group of young people who so successfully put on the pageant last Christmas at the local Presbyterian church, were entertained with a skating party this week by Mrs. T. E. Turpin, who supervised the play, she and Mr. Turpin chaperoning the group. Those going were Elenore McGarvin, Eldora Fibley, John Day, Howard McGuire, Margaret McGuire, Jewell Fagen, Nelson Morgan, Charles Parr, Frank Eastwood, Annabelle Day, MaryLou Hare, Hattie Edward.

MUSIC LITERATURE ART

ARNOLD SCHONBERG

By RUTH ANDREWS

PART I

Holding first place as the most ultra-modern among contemporary composers, Arnold Schonberg, king of musical anarchists, has been picturesquely termed by a well-known musical critic as "the hardest musical nut to crack of his generation." He is the chief exponent of the school of expressionism, which has succeeded the era of the impressionists, of whom Debussy is an outstanding example.

Despite the fact that his output has not been especially prolific, Schonberg has stirred up more of a tempest among the critics than any other composer since Wagner. He has roused both wrath and the most extravagant adulation, and it is all interesting to note that while in the ranks of the conservatives he is considered a "power of darkness," among the ultra-progressive he is heralded as a true prophet of the future.

At any rate, this strange new music of Schonberg's, or "un-music" as it is sometimes called, has exerted an influence upon the trend of musical expression during recent years that has been vast and far-reaching. Indeed, certain authorities of international standing laud him as "the most stimulating influence in the musical world at its present critical period."

This daring pioneer of futuristic music was born in Vienna, the same Vienna of the classic masters, and of Johann Strauss, weaver of waltz melodies. He was born on September 13, 1874, of Jewish extraction, and during his youth what little musical education he received was through his own efforts. He was self-taught until his twentieth year, and after this time, received a little training in the principles of composition from his brother-in-law, Alexander van Zemlinsky.

Schonberg did not meet with any immediate recognition from his Viennese countrymen. Unable to gain a hearing for his early works in his native city, he became dissatisfied, and went to Berlin in 1901, during his twenty-seventh year.

Through the aid of the modern opera composer, Richard Strauss, stationed in Berlin at that time, Schonberg secured a position as instructor in Stern's Conservatory. His chief hope, to secure public performance of his earlier works, was not to be attained, however, and again he returned to Vienna in 1903, not daunted by these difficulties.

Back in Vienna, his friendship with the noted Austrian conductor and composer, Gustav Mahler, grew and soon was to be one of the most important influences in his progress. Mahler's word was law, and secured from Schonberg the coveted performance of several of his early works, including his sextet, "Verklärte Nacht," his string quartet, Opus 7, his "Kammersymphonie," in which his revolutionary tendencies had already begun to assert themselves, also a choral work, "Gurrelieder," based on the poems of Jacobson, and written by Schonberg in 1900, during his twenty-sixth year, a ballad cycle for solo, choir and orchestra, that has since been termed "one of the landmarks in modern German music."

This latter work, written in the Wagnerian style that attracted Schonberg during his early period as a composer, gave unmistakable evidence of creative power, and drew the attention of the critics and the musical elite to Schonberg, who soon found himself the center of attention, with pupils flocking to him for training in this new modern style of composition.

Such adulation was also spiced with considerable adverse criticism, and with the dual reward of praise and blame, Schonberg's career was now started well on its way.

PLAN MUSIC WEEK FESTIVAL

Elaborate plans are under way for the local celebration of National Music Week during the entire week of May 3 to 9 inclusive. This year's festival will mark Santa Ana's fifth successive celebration of the nation-wide musical event, which is being recognized in 3500 cities throughout the nation this spring.

Preparations are being made on the same extensive scale that has characterized this annual event during past seasons. Major musical organizations of the city will all participate, added by choral groups, various church organizations and musical departments from 15 high schools of Orange county.

Each night during Music week colorful programs will be featured, with local and out-of-town talent co-operating. As in former years, concerts will be presented free to the public.

The week's program will open with an open-air sacred concert in Birch park on Sunday afternoon, May 3. At this time a large chorus of 150 voices, directed by Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh will participate, also the Santa Ana Municipal band, directed by D. C. Clanton.

During the week following music departments of the local schools will stage an early American pageant, including colorful songs and dances in costume. A choral program is being planned by various local ensembles, a special band concert program with featured soloists, an all-Spanish program, with typical Spanish music, and a musical program in which pupils from 15 county high schools will participate.

CURRENT MUSIC NEWS

SANTA ANA

Treble Clef Concert

Attention of local music lovers is again called to the concert program which will be presented in Ebell Club Auditorium next Tuesday evening, April 7, by the Treble Clef Club, popular ladies chorus of this city, under the direction of William Clare Hall. The chorus, which is composed of about fifty of the best women's voices in Santa Ana, has appeared on various occasions in connection with local band and orchestra programs, and this will mark the first time that the club has appeared independently.

According to Miss Ethel Coffman, president of the club, the program to be offered Tuesday night will include vocal selections of both classic and modern masters. Numbers will include "Love" by Karl Bohm; "Open Our Eyes," McFarland; "Trees" (Rasbach); "Dawn" by Curran. The favorite Brahms "Lullaby," Elgar's "At Torrance in Summer" and "The Smith" by Brahms will also be offered by the club, and two sacred numbers from Mendelssohn, "Lift Thine Eyes" from the oratorio, "Elijah" and "Waited for the Lord."

Of additional interest will be the appearance of a vocal trio, composed of members of the club, Louise Hanson, Blanche Owens, and Edna Hicham. Solo numbers by a guest artist will also lend novelty.

Tickets may be had at the Santa Ana Book Store, also from Treble Clef members.

LOS ANGELES

Philharmonic "Pop" Concert

An all-Tchaikovsky program will be featured by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra in Philharmonic Auditorium tomorrow afternoon, April 5, under the direction of Dr. Arthur Rodzinski.

Tchaikowsky, one of the most famous among the Russian composers, is especially renowned as one of the foremost orchestral composers of all time. Programs composed exclusively of his works, never fail to attract large audiences.

Sunday afternoon's program will include the Polonaise from "Eugene Onegin," the "Fifth Symphony," "Variations on Rocco Theme" for cello and orchestra, and the "1812" Overture.

Kolla Levine, talented Russian cellist, will be heard as soloist of the afternoon. He is a pupil of Klengel, and a graduate of Leipzig, and Petrograd Conservatories. He made his American debut in a joint concert with Chaplain with whom later (1922-23) he toured as assisting artist.

Await Paderewski Recital

Many local music lovers plan to attend one of the outstanding musical events of the Spring season, when that most interesting figure of the music world, Paderewski, celebrated Polish pianist, will appear in two Los Angeles recitals, Tuesday evening, April 7, and Saturday afternoon, April 11, at the Philharmonic Auditorium, under L. E. Behmer's management.

Paderewski's first visit to the United States was made forty-eight years ago. In 1890 he was hailed in London as the greatest pianist of the age. The following year he took America by storm, and has frequently returned to this country since on concert tours, with the exception of the period during which he represented Poland as a statesman.

Although Paderewski recently celebrated his 70th birthday, his talent has never dimmed. And the world knows of his great achievements both in the artistic and political worlds. His fame has brought him the international acclaim of millions.

Not only as a virtuoso is Paderewski gifted, but he has to his credit many charming compositions.

Announce Federation Contest

The Southern California preliminary contest for entrants to the National Federation of Music Clubs contests to be held at San Francisco next June will be held next Saturday, April 11, at the Hollywood Woman's Clubhouse, 7078 Hollywood Boulevard. The state contest will be held in the same place two weeks later on April 25.

Bowl Easter Service

Annual plans for the elaborate celebration of Easter sunrise service at Hollywood Bowl have been completed. The Hollywood Community Orchestra of 70 players will furnish the instrumental background for the service, while two choirs will be merged for the occasion.

An opening fanfare of trumpets and a living cross of children will be features, as will be the appearance of the guest soloists, Gladys Rosset, soprano and Gordon Berger of Whittier College.

Cadman on Tour

Charles Wakefield Cadman, noted Hollywood composer who is now living near San Diego, recently left Los Angeles for a tour of the Pacific Northwest. In Portland he will make three appearances, one with orchestra.

Cadman plans to conduct his cantata, "The Sunset Trail," next month, in Dallas, and Fort Worth.

Book Notes . . . .

Frederick C. Green, professor of French at Toronto University, has written a new work on the French novel: "French Novelists from the Revolution to Proust" (Appleton). The book comes as a successor to the author's French novelists: "Manner and Ideas from the Renaissance to the Revolution." It is a complete history and critical analysis of the trend of French fiction through a period of more than a hundred years. The author discusses the Romantic and Realistic movements in light of specific works, shows the influence of foreign literature, and draws conclusions that are both original and authoritative.

"Normalcy for Fat Folk" or "A Safe Road to the Slender Waist Line by Eating to Grow Thin" has been revised. It has been nearly twenty years now since Vance Thompson first wrote about the Mahdiah Menus and published his little book of recipes. Mr. Thompson's Don't for the corpulent are:

"Don't sleep too much.
Don't take naps.
Don't overeat, even of lean dishes.
Don't eat unless you are hungry.
Don't drink with your meals.
Don't drink alcoholic beverages.
Don't eat bread—except gluten bread toasted, and this in moderation.
Don't take a cab-walk."

Whitlessy House, McGraw-Hill Book Company, announces nine books for publication this spring. Four of them made their appearance March 27 and five will appear April 15. On the March list are "Business Adrift" by W. B. Donham, head of the School of Business Administration, Harvard University; "A History of Aircraft" by F. Alexander Macgoun and Eric Hodgkins; "Let's Go Fishing," by Charles Reittall, and "Building the World Society," a handbook of International Relations.

The April list includes "The Art of Learning," by Walter B. Pitkin, "Biology in Human Affairs," "Gliding and Soaring," "Opticks," and "The Child From One to Twelve."

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

The Enduring Quest by Professor H. A. Overstreet, published by W. W. Norton and Company, Inc.

The subtitle of "The Enduring Quest" is "a search for a philosophy of life." Such a book as this is exactly what many of us are searching for during this Lenten season, when we are thinking more than customarily of the purposes and realities of life. The first half of the book is devoted to reorientation in the new ways of thinking brought upon us by scientific and technological advance of the country. Now in the twentieth century, Professor Overstreet tells us "the physical scientist frankly acknowledges the limitations of his inquiry, and himself warns us against committing the fallacy of abstraction." In man himself, so runs the theme of the book, we have the revelation of the reality we are seeking. "What man exhibits in himself—of qualities and process—belongs to nature, indeed, is nature on the level of humanity. When we regard matters in this light, it is seen that man exhibits in himself far more of what nature is and can be than do any of the animals or plants around him."

"We detect in evolution on the human level a purposeful movement toward a more widely functioning whole. . . . The human processes, we seem justified in concluding, apparently do reveal something of the reality we are seeking to know. Which of the human processes do signify reality? Professor Overstreet here coins a word. Reality, he says is actuality. The great search of philosophy is to discover those ways of life which, when acted out, bring an enduring effectiveness."

There follows a summing up, an arrangement of those things in life which are permanent, which have actuality. There is the quest for coherence, the search for truth, the realization of the beautiful, the realization of goodness, the realization of love. Illusions, too have their place. And the last chapters deal with the emerging life, the upward evolution and a discussion of the manifestations of the development of the human being.

The book inspires one to think of these permanent values in life, to speculate on realities. That a book should stimulate thought is far more important than that it should be in perfect harmony with ourselves. Not only does this book stimulate thought, it does another important thing. It points a rational way out of the maze of thought, about the purpose of life and the place of man in the universe which has so puzzled and baffled man since the revolution of the nineteenth century.

They Told Barron edited and arranged by Arthur Pound and Sam Taylor Moore, published by Harper and Brothers, New York.

"They Told Barron" is a collection of notes made by Clarence W. Barron, publisher of the Wall Street Journal, the Boston News Bureau, the Philadelphia Financial Journal, Barron's, and President of Dow, Jones & Co. of conversations he had with the leading financial men of New York and most of the rest of the world.

Here we have the notes of the leading financial reporter of America who spent his whole life following market facts, rumors and gossip. This man prided himself on his diligence in searching out the financial factors making for the success of business institutions. For many years he avoided publishing financial advertising for fear it might make his journals less vigilant in the publication of the truth about business.

He was a man who had many friends and undoubtedly learned the "inside" facts of many businesses long before they became known to the public. But even so he was always "bullish" in American Woolen and New Haven stocks in which New England investors lost many millions. The book is liberally sprinkled with the observations of men and the fortunes they once possessed or might have had except for bad business decisions. Casual observations abound, citing the success or failure of some man or men in their efforts to boost or "knock down" the value of some stock. Men will join together in a "pool" operation to boost the value of some stock or bond or to maintain its value until the public will become interested in it, and not infrequently some one of the lot will be selling short and multiplying the effort of the rest. Of course such efforts are a violation of confidence but "double crossing" among the "big men" of the street is not common.

The small investors' chances of making a "good buy" on the New York Exchange would indeed be pathetic were it not for the fact that the business trend of the nation in its gyrations up or down is beyond the ken of everybody. Nobody knows with demonstrable certainty when depression will overtake us, when the country has touched bottom, or what whims and fancies inventions or discoveries will upset the best previous calculations. However, this book does demonstrate that small traders, depending on the "latest dope" have but very little chance of coming out ahead. The "dope," even from the head offices is frequently misleading. Percy Rockefeller and Sabin once listened to a confidential story told by an auditor of a drug firm. His story of 55 per cent profit on each dollar invested caused them to invest several millions in a drug chain of their own. They were very heavy losers in the venture and soon begged their competitor to relieve them of their investment.

For many months, perhaps a year, the insiders knew that the Mexican petroleum fields were "playing out" because of salt water. Optimistic news was however broadcast. The insiders sold their stock through a third person and made a big show of buying more on the open market. All sorts of "lambs" bought on the strength of each "bull story put out." Jesse Livermore, one of the largest "bear" traders sent his own men to Mexico and learned the facts first hand. He sold short at 190 per share and covered at $84 to $93 a share. He made millions. Shortly before the Stutz developed he bought the stock at 58 but sold out at 50 only to see it go to 700. During March, 1921, Charlie Schwab said to Barron, "last year I was worth $150,000,000. Now I owe six million on stock I bought for fifteen million. That is more than I can get for it now."

Barron records that in 1919 Thomas Fortune Ryan was worth 120 millions. In the market crash of 1920 the Guaranty Trust Co. lost 43 millions. In 1916 William Boyce Thompson backed the Republic party for one million. Andrew Mellon's interest in Gulf Oil is said to be worth 350 million. In April, 1928, he records William Boyce Thompson left Boston with $50,000, speculated in the bull market and came out with $1,500,000. He had an option on "Nippasing" which he bought at $4, sold at $20 and then watched it go to $34 a share. In March, 1922, he records, Percy Rockefeller made money both ways. Forty million on the upturn of stocks, 25 million by shorting the later. The book is filled with passages such as these.

Those people who do not follow the "stock market" and its jargon of "longs," "shorts," "points," "hedging," "pools," "bears," "bulls" and "trading" to simulate market activity will find the notes replete with keen business observations and gossip of nationally known people. Some one says of Charles Chaplin that he's "tighter than Harry Lauder." Wm. Rockefeller says "he does like the portrait of John D. because of the hands. He says they are still grasping." "Max Mitchell is a ruin-ed man because he bought the "Miracle Man," (movie reel) for a small sum and made a million out of it. He thought that was all there was to the movie business, bought everything in sight and went broke."

H. Clay Purce started the Revolution in Mexico. He wanted Diaz to reduce the tariff on oil imports into Mexico. Diaz refused, Purce backed Madero with some "real money" and the revolution got out of hand.

During the war Postal Telegraph refused to raise its rates, when Western Union did. Western Union proceeded to give the Postal so much of their own business that the Postal simply couldn't give its regular clients good service, adding thereby to the Western Union's prestige. David Sarnoff in 1918 criticized Western Union for putting another cable under the Atlantic at a cost of 18 million when they could get better service from a radio station at either side of the Atlantic for one million. In December, 1918, American Brass was still making cartridges for the government. For war time use, Doherty in 1918 classified 80 per cent of college professors as Bolsheviks and included President Eliot of Harvard and Wilson among them.

J. P. Morgan, speaking of the reparations question says, "if you take all a creditor makes you leave him without hope, and hope in a debtor is a creditor's chief asset. To anyone who has a good newspaper knowledge of the world, this book with its Rockefeller, Morgans, Livermore, Durant, Wheelans, Prince, Schwab, Rogers, Doherty, Sinclair, Teagle, Stewart, McCormick, Liggett, Thompson, Cowdray, Fischer Bros., Chrysler, Lamont, Kahn and hundreds of lesser personages all identified should be very interesting, to "stock dabblers," very instructive.

Review: La Vagabonde by Colette published by Doubleday, Doran & Company.

Recently M. Andre Maurois wrote in the New York Times Book Review, from Paris: "The form now in fashion for the novel—now is that of description, without a very definitely formulated plan, of the contents of a stream of consciousness—and the preference of our age for an impressionistic style, have made things easier for feminine writers than in former times. For women have a taste for works composed as a series of notations and they are able to write them to perfection. Already we have in France had the brilliant example of Mme. Colette."

In 1920 Mme. Colette was given the rank of chevalier of the Legion of Honor.

When we like a book there is often, in fact usually, an effort to endow it with some utilitarian motive for existence, to attribute to it a moral purpose. Possibly it is a Puritan strain in us which causes us to always seek to find in everything we enjoy doing, or want to do, a serious noble or utilitarian objective.

It would be easy enough to find a justification for spending time on these books of Colette which would satisfy our terribly insistent consciences. But behold, here is a popular French writer. Let us see whether we are cosmopolitan enough, or French enough to enjoy the books.

Renee is the darling of the Paris music halls. Her heart was unattached and she was jealous that it should remain so. For eight miserable years she had loved her artist husband, borne with his infidelities, suffered with pride and silence until his final cruelty had given her the courage to escape. After that she came to look upon love with the sophisticated cynicism of one who has paid high for wisdom. She had many suitors. Then one emerged from the background of the rest, one more persistent than the others. His love was young and ardent. Compared with the bitterness of her experience it intrigued her for a time. She wondered whether, after all, love and freedom might not be compatible. Whether she became actually convinced that it was not, or merely fearful of old age is a question. Here is introducing Renee, vagabond, lover of freedom.

The Gentle Libertine is recommended by the New York Times as Mme. Colette's "most mature, most delicate, wittiest book." The book is extremely French, signifying ultra-sophisticated. It is quite, quite different from "Renee" and much less sure to interest and please almost everyone. It is the story of Minne who was very amusing as a pure young girl, romanticizing and imagining herself in love with an Apache about whom she read in the Paris papers. When a young lady she married Antoine. After her marriage she had several lovers, trying to find perfect love, and in the very end found it in her husband's arms.

NEWS FROM THE AUTOMOBILE WORLD

HOLD MOTORIST BUYS $180,000 TO BLAME FOR WORTH BUICKS TIRE CONDITION AT ONE TIME

A decision of great importance to all motorists was handed down by the state supreme court of Washington when it ruled that motorists are responsible for the condition of their tires, that the blowouts of worn tires are not "acts of God," and established a precedent by ruling that injured parties are entitled to damages in accidents of this nature.

This decision takes into consideration the many improvements in tire manufacture and was based upon expert testimony which showed that those conditions of wear which most often result in blowouts are recognizable and controllable.

As has been observed, American motorists as a class are riding on four potential blowouts with one to spare.

When consulted about this decision of the Washington supreme court, Mr. Lyon of the Lyon's Tire Service, authorized Kelly-Springfield Tire distributor, pointed out that, since smooth, worn tires cause a majority of automobile accidents, penalizing owners of such equipment in case of accidents is an effective method of increasing safety.

"There are two main reasons why worn tires are unnecessary," said Mr. Lyon. "First, motorists who examine the Kelly Safetygraphs are given visible proof of the thousands of Safe Miles in every Kelly tire. Not only do the Safetygraphs show the protection against blowouts provided by the wear-resisting Kelly tread, but also they demonstrate how the sharp-edge contact of the Kelly tread blocks discounts the danger of skidding."

"Price is the second reason, and a very important one," Mr. Lyon added. "With the present amazingly low prices of all Kelly Tires, not only Kelly's long mileage, but also Kelly's Safe Miles cost motorists no more than they pay for other tires."

Mr. Lyon said he is glad to explain the Kelly Safetygraphs and the safety features of Kelly Tires to motorists who visit the Lyon's Tire Service station at 406 S. Main street.

One hundred and nine synchromesh equipped Buick Eights were sold and delivered last week by the Howard Automobile company to the Hertz Driveurself Station, Incorporated, for a purchase price of more than $180,000.

The acquisition of this new equipment, consisting of sedans, roadsters and coupes of the 118-inch wheelbase models, marks the initial step of the 1931 Hertz program calling for a substantial increase in its large Buick fleet throughout the state.

"The Hertz Driveurself Stations, which control the operation of more than 300 automobile rental stations in the United States and Canada, made its first Buick purchase about four years ago. Today there are several thousand Buicks in their service, distributed among the various stations now operating throughout North America," stated W. R. Gordon, manager of the Reid Motor Co.

"The fact that this fleet of eight-cylinder Buicks is replacing a number of 1930 Buick 'sixes' goes to prove that the public demands the same engineering advancements and refinements in their rented cars as in their private automobiles," declared Loomis.

"As soon as some notable automotive feature, such as the silent shift, synchromesh transmission, is announced, the renting motorist insists on cars so equipped, and for this reason the Hertz Driveurself Stations have a policy of using nothing but the latest models in its automotive rental service."

"Now that we have advertised the availability of synchromesh equipped Buick Eights in our service, it is practically impossible to interest our customers in cars of this class with the old-style, conventional type of transmission," stated L. N. Disbrow, assistant superintendent of the Hertz organization.

"We have found that driving a car becomes largely a matter of intuition and habit, and once one of our customers has experienced the thrill of the Buick synchromesh transmission, he will not go back to the grinding and clashing of gears that is inevitable with the old type of transmission."

Additions to State Roads in Southland

Governor Rolph's approval of Edwards bill adds 633 miles of secondary state highways to system in Southern California. These are substantially the routes recommended two years ago by the Automobile Club of Southern California for adoption by the state. They are shown in heavy line in relation to lighter lines of state highway routes. These increases tend to more nearly equalize secondary highway system mileage between north and south of state, the southern part now having 1,158 miles as compared to 1,949 in the northern section.

EDWARDS BILL SIGNED BY GOV. ROLPH ADDS SANTA ANA CANYON ROAD TO STATE HIGHWAY SYSTEM

Santa Ana residents were expressing gratification today on the signing by Governor Rolph of the Edwards bill (Senate Bill No. 46), which adds the Santa Ana canyon road from San Bernardino to Anaheim. Santa Ana and Newport Beach, a total of 63 miles, to the secondary state highway system.

This former county route feeding into this section, which is now to be maintained and developed by the state, represents a valuable "gift" to the district, it is pointed out, in that county funds may now be diverted to construction and maintenance of other essential roads, and state improvement of the highway will assure increased motor tourist travel and property value gains to this vicinity.

A total of 633 miles of Southern California highways, nearly four times as many as the north received, were added to the state highway system. The important routes added, however, including the Santa Ana-Santa Ana canyon-San Bernardino highway, might have been taken over by the state two years ago had it not been for doubt created by political and other interests concerning the Edwards-Kline bill of 1929. This measure, which failed of passage, sponsored the addition of roads recommended by the Automobile Club of Southern California after intensive investigation by its engineers. Highways now included in the state system, it is now found, are substantially the same as those recommended by the automobile club in that bill.

The motoring organization made traffic checks at that time and named every road for inclusion that it considered the legislature might possibly accept into the secondary highway system. The addition of practically all of these recommendations by the bill just passed is, therefore, a source of satisfaction to automobile club officials as well as Orange county highway authorities.

All Southern California will greatly benefit through the fact that the mileage of secondary highways in the south is now made more equal with that in the north, it is pointed out. On the basis of the proportion of roads in the system, the northern section of the state has been receiving the lion's share of maintenance and reconstruction money and consequently the greater amount of highway work.

Officials of the county and the automobile club have long recognized that the Orange county routes now included in the state system serve state travel as much as local traffic and therefore should be maintained and developed at state expense.

The addition of 633 miles in the south, as compared to 171 miles in northern California, will tend to more nearly equalize the state expenditures between the two sections, it is stated, although it is hoped that this first effort will be followed by others that will build up the secondary system in the south to truly equal that in the northern part of the state.

Prior to the present increase, the 13 southern counties had 625 miles of roads in the secondary system, as compared to 1778 miles in the north. With the new additions, the proportion becomes 1158 miles in the southern section, which has the bulk of travel, the most motor vehicles, and pays the most in gasoline tax and vehicle fees, as compared to 1949 in the northern section of California.

PLAN SCRAPPING OF 3 MILLION CARS

A systematic nation-wide program for scrapping 3,000,000 automobiles annually was outlined at the recent convention of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, although further details remain to be worked out, it is announced. Not more than 500,000 automobiles are actually scrapped each year, according to this report reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California. It is said that to maintain and stimulate the market for new cars at least six times that number should go to the scrap heap each year. This estimate is based upon an average car life of seven years.

TO SPEND NEAR BILLION FOR ROADS IN '31

More than one billion dollars will be spent by 45 states on public works during 1931, according to a report issued by the president's emergency committee on employment. Of the total amount, $212,000,000 is for buildings and $852,400,000 is for highways. New York leads all states with a total expenditure of $103,000,000 planned for the current year.

California, with a building and road program calling for $79,854,000; Louisiana with $54,000,000, and Illinois with $53,000,000, will contribute an important measure of relief for unemployment, says the report reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Relative to the California program, the report says: "The building program recommended to the legislature by Governor Rolph for the 1931-32 biennium totals $8,881,075. Included in this sum is $5,106,000 already approved in the emergency bills passed and signed by the governor. The state has $28,500,000 in state highway funds holding over from 1929 legislative authorization, in addition to which $21,661,250 for state highways for the fiscal year of 1931 has been included in the executive budget. The sum of $15,761,750 will go to the committee for highway work."

California One Of 10 States To Ask Sight Tests

California is one of only ten states that require eyesight tests of applicants for drivers' licenses, according to a report received by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Three states, California, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania, are cited as having the most effective eye tests by the Eyesight Conservation Council of America, which plans to campaign nationally for the adoption by every state of standard vision tests for prospective motorists. The council points out that modern traffic conditions have made good motor vision essential to public safety.

In Pennsylvania alone almost 2000 persons who applied for motor licenses were found to be blind in one eye, according to the report of its state motor vehicle commission.

Use Airplanes To Help Motorists Stranded on Road

Airplanes can be of service in delivering a supply of gas to motorists stalled by lack of fuel in remote localities. This was illustrated in a recent report received from the United States forest service by the Automobile Club of Southern California. During a large fire in one of the national forests in Montana fuel was needed for operation of a portable water pump. An airplane delivered 10 gallons of gas to the fire line without landing. Here is how it was done:

The gasoline was placed in 10 one-gallon tin containers enclosed in wooden boxes, wired together and packed with a heavy buffer of paper in mail sacks. Within one hour after leaving Spokane, more than 100 miles distant in an air line, the plane was over the fire area. Eight of the 10 cans dropped from the plane were received in good condition.

BATTERY CARE SAVES MONEY FOR MOTORIST

There is probably nothing more aggravating to a driver than finding a dead battery in his car. It is not only inconvenient, to say the least, but hard on the pocket book, too—for it means expense for recharging the battery and usually an additional charge for a loan battery.

Of course when a storage battery is really worn out, this trouble and expense cannot be avoided. According to Earl Matthews, proprietor of the Willard station at Fifth and Spurgeon streets, most sudden battery failures are the result of neglect and often occur no more than half way through a battery's normal life.

"In the majority of cases," says Mr. Matthews, "sudden battery failure without apparent cause means only one thing: That the battery owner has failed to give his battery regular attention. Nowadays when a motorist can go regularly to a reliable battery dealer where, as at all Willard stations, complete inspection service is made without charge, there is really no excuse for such battery trouble. We try to keep our customers in the habit of coming in regularly to have their batteries inspected, and we make no charge for inspection service on any make of battery. If a storage battery is inspected regularly every couple of weeks or so, terminals kept clean, cables checked and the amount of water regulated, any battery owner can reasonably expect a full life of service from his battery without costly trouble. It is a simple and convenient service to get every once in a while, and yet it is usually a big money saver in the end."

TRIPLETT WILL USE RICHFIELD IN BIG RACES

LOS ANGELES, April 4.—Ernie Triplett, spectacular performer at the Ascat American Legion Speedway Sunday will enter the Indianapolis Memorial day racing classic at the wheel of the Buckeye Duesenberg car owned by Gibson Bradford, wealthy banker and sportsman from Ohio. It has been announced.

Triplett, driving his speedy Allen Special, using Richfield gasoline, walked off with five out of six races entered in Sunday's racing and put on what veteran racing followers declared to be the most sensational individual performance ever turned in at the American Legion track.

He was adjudged the victor in the 40-lap main event, the Helmet dash, one 10-lap race and two 3-lap match races.

Triplett got "hot" early in the day setting a new all time record for all types of cars in the qualifying event of 27.38 seconds. This time, made without a supercharger, smashed the old mark of 27.40 made by George Souders several years ago driving a super-charged car. Triplett also turned in another track record in the Helmet dash.

Lou Meyer showed racing fans he still has "the stuff that champs are made of" when he wrestled the lead away from Triplett and Cummings at the start of the 5-lap match event and maintained his lead to the finish. Meyer, although not slated to compete, filled in the breach for "Shorty" Canton who was scheduled to drive the Meyer car. Meyer used Richfield gasoline in winning the event.

Richfield also drove to victory in two other events—won by Chester Gardner and E. C. Woodford. Eight triumphs at Ascat Sunday gives Richfield a total of 43 victories and six new A.A.A. speed records since the first of the year.

DETOUR ON RIVERSIDE SAN BERNARDINO ROAD

Construction work is still in progress on La Cadena drive between Riverside and San Bernardino and it is necessary to detour via 8th street and Iowa road, reports the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

costly trouble. It is a simple and convenient service to get every once in a while, and yet it is usually a big money saver in the end."

WARN MOTORISTS ON CARBON CANYON ROAD

Due to widening of the road through Carbon canyon in the vicinity of La Vida Hot Springs, short sections of one-way road will be encountered and caution should be used, warns the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

MODJESKA HOME ROAD NOW OPEN

The road from Irvine Park to Modjeska's home and from Irvine park to Corona via Skyline drive are not affected by the construction of the dam south of Irvine park and are open to travel, states the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

CITRUS MERGES WITH LARGEST GOODYEAR FIRM

operated under the name of Motor Tires, Inc., of which Citrus Tire Co. will be a distinct division, retaining its own identity in every way except in name.

"There will be absolutely no change in personnel or in policy except insofar as such changes may tend toward a betterment of our service. The same loyal employees who have always served our customers in the past will continue to do so in the future. However, with the consolidation there will be brought to all of our four stores all of the prestige that Motor Tires, Inc., has built up during that company's 17 years of service; increased purchasing power which will be reflected in the values which we shall be able to offer; the better knowledge of tire problems gained by the combined experience of the two organizations; and greatly increased facilities and equipment that will enable us to give our customers even better service than we have been able to do heretofore.

Operate Four Stores

"In fact," Mr. Bown continues, "it is the plan to operate four Citrus Tire Co. stores as a division of Motor Tires, Inc., that will function in much the same way and make possible the same general benefits as do the various divisions of General Motors, or any of the other large automobile concerns who have found that the amalgamation of their various divisions under one head makes possible distinct savings and increased values and service to the customer.

"In announcing the merger of these two well-known companies we want to take the opportunity to thank all of our many customers for the business which they have given us and to pledge to one and all a continuance of the high ideals upon which Citrus Tire Co. was founded and upon which we have built up an enviable reputation for quality merchandise, sound values and efficient services, and we stand solidly behind the assurance that under the banner of Motor Tires, Inc. that they can always expect to find and to secure from any of our four conveniently located Orange county stores efficient, intelligent advice and co-operation in connection with their tire problems and the best in tire and automotive service that it is possible to secure."

NASH

Quality Bodies for Quality Cars

NASH employs the most advanced principle of steel, wood and composite construction—the same kind of construction used in bodies for the highest priced cars. Interiors are tailored in quality mohairs, whipcords, broadcloths or genuine leather. Seat springs are exceptionally deep and restful, while arm rests are so built as to afford unusual comfort. Interior and exterior hardware is executed in chaste design, complementing the body design as a whole. Insulation against heat in summer and cold in winter is of course provided. For a new conception of modern motoring, accept a demonstration of any Nash model—but don't permit its remarkable performance to overshadow the equally notable excellence of its body. Drive in—soon.

138,000 Miles in Desert Run

This Chevrolet truck has been driven 138,000 miles in the desert near Las Vegas, Nevada, and is still running strong. The driver steps along at fifty miles per hour through torrid summers and cooler winters, through sand and chuck holes.

Truck Body 400 Years Old

This truck body started growing 400 years ago and is now used as a home on wheels by three war veterans who are touring the country. The huge spruce log is mounted on a Chevrolet truck. The upper photo shows the spruce log body on the Chevrolet truck. Below is the interior. At the left is the tree just after it had been felled in the North Woods. The man is over six feet tall.

'HIT, RUN' DRIVERS CAUSE 114 DEATHS

"Hit and run" drivers were involved in 114 accidents causing death and 1156 others causing injury in California during 1930.

This information has reached the Automobile Club of Southern California from E. Raymond Cato, superintendent of the California Highway Patrol, who emphasizes the importance of apprehending such drivers.

As "hit and run" drivers are able to make their escape usually because witnesses fail to get their numbers, Cato said members of the patrol would be instructed to continue rigid enforcement of section 43 of the motor vehicle act requiring that license plates be displayed in a position clearly visible and be kept free from foreign matter such as dust and grease.

NUMBER OF DEATHS IN L. A. INCREASED

Motor vehicle fatalities have increased over last year's record for the first two months in Los Angeles city, although a decrease is shown in the county outside of the city, according to records of the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The total for city and county showed 11 deaths ahead of the same period of 1930. Causes of the 133 motor vehicle accident deaths were many and varied, the greatest number occurring under the head of violation of right of way, pedestrians crossing elsewhere than at intersections, and crossing streets carelessly.

LARGE DEMAND IS BEING MADE FOR AUBURNS

Paul Clark, local Auburn dealer, announced today that Auburn led all makes of cars in its price class in sales in Los Angeles and Hollywood last month, which, he stated, proves the advertised statement that Auburn has the world's biggest value in motor cars.

"A total of 20 able and well-informed dealers have joined the Auburn ranks in Southern California in the past 15 days and it is not impossible that the figures will be enlarged by the end of this month," Clark stated.

Clark stated that the introduction of the new Auburn in Santa Ana was the most enthusiastic of any car's initial showing to the public in years here.

Studebaker is all set No Mid-Year Model Changes

FREE WHEELING with positive gear control was introduced in The President and The Commander July 10, 1930. It was added to The Dictator Eight in September and to the Studebaker Six in January, 1931.

Today, every Studebaker model has this greatest automotive advancement since the electric starter, plus the utmost in chassis improvements and body refinements.

Therefore, in accordance with the recommendations of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, Studebaker has decided to introduce no new models before next winter.

No other make of car offers such a complete line of chassis and body types as does Studebaker. Here is the proof:

FILTERING REMOVES IMPURITIES AND INCREASES OILINESS

FILTERING REMOVES IMPURITIES—IT INCREASES "OILINESS"

The chart above shows the Viscosity (body or oiliness) curve of Gilmore Lion Head Motor Oil in comparison with popular Pennsylvania Motor Oils; one well-known Mid-Continent Motor Oil and one of the leading Western Motor Oils.

Note how Gilmore Lion Head Motor Oil does not thin out like other oils when subjected to high temperatures. Higher comparative viscosity at 210 degrees F. proves its longer life.

Other means of purifying motor oil may be quicker and cheaper. But, the best method is Filtration. It purifies . . . removes free carbon and non-lubricating substances without chemical reaction. The "Filter-Pured" process enhances natural "OILINESS."

Gilmore Lion Head . . . the purest Pennsylvania Motor Oil is filtered time and time again by gravity through Fuller's Earth, until its transparent light opalescent color indicates the absence of foreign substances, impurities and free carbon. It is the oiliest motor oil.

"OILINESS" is only one of eight reasons why you should use Gilmore Lion Head Motor Oil . . . ask your dealer about the other seven.

THE ANIMATES
STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

The Animates found Mandalay a very pretty place to stay. The folks who lived there all seemed kind. Said Scotty, "This is great! The natives seem to make a fuss as soon as they see all of us. I'll bet we have some treats in store and I can hardly wait."

"Well, first of all, we'll ride around and we can cover lots of ground," explained the kindly Travel Man. "I'll rent a little cart. You'll laugh when you see what we'll get and you'll be scared of it. I'll bet." And then he hired a car that looked as if 'twould fall apart.

"Don't worry," said the Travel Man, as up to it the Tinies ran. "It looks real frail, but it is safe. Hop in and off we'll go." So, in they climbed and down the road there rode a happy little load. They saw all that there was to see because they traveled slow.

All of a sudden Clowdy said, "Oh, there's a fine stream just ahead. And look at all the funny boats. They look like dragons. Gee! The men who paddle them are quick. They know just how to turn the trick. And every boat moves right along as smoothly as can be."

"Well, well," the Travel Man cried out. "Let's find what they are all about. We've had enough of this small cart. We'll transfer to a boat. We'll have a ride and then, what's more, we'll get a fine view of the shore." When they got in wee Coppy said, "I hope we stay afloat."

The ride was really heaps of fun and as they moved beneath the sun the Tinies all eyed the boat and finally Carry said, "No wonder we were scared to death. Why, even now, I catch my breath. That thing, up front, that sticks up high is like a dragon's head."

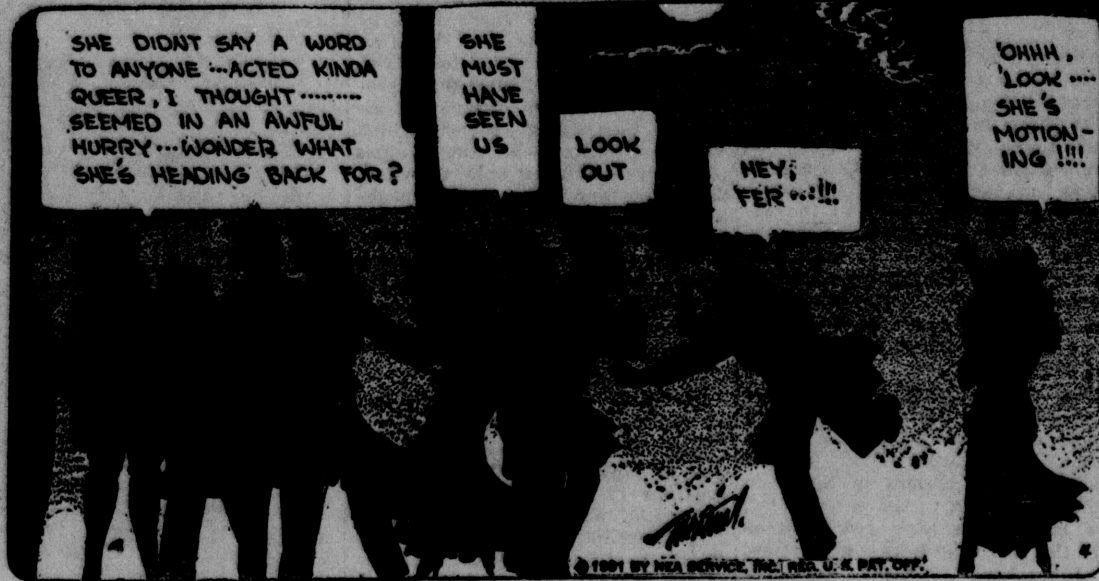

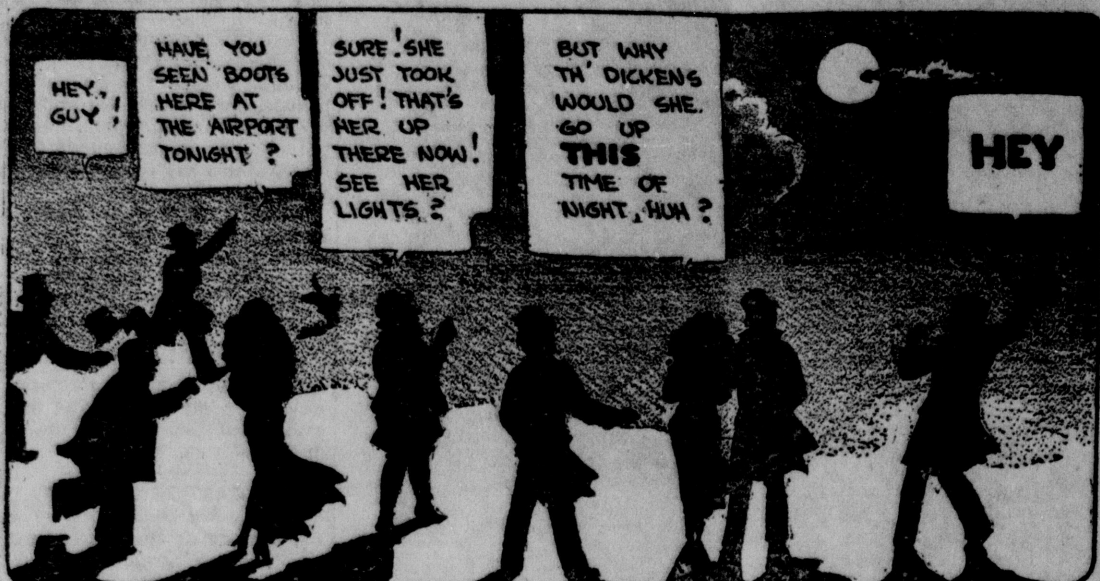

(The Tinies hear some native musicians in the next story.)

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE, TIE, PIE, PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

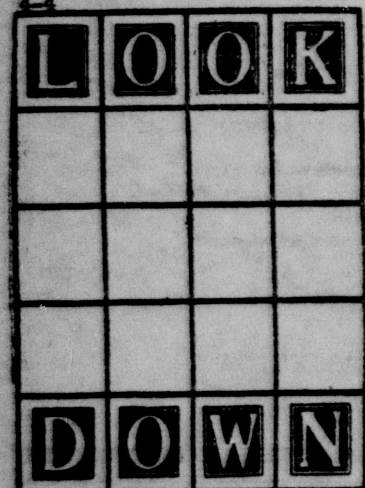

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

LOOK to DOWN—LOOK DOWN and keep your eye on the ball and your strikes will surely go straight to the pin. If you take your eye off the "putting pencil" you'll surely write off the page.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Al Capone was arrested in Chicago under the vagrancy act, charged with being a vagrant. He was let out on bail and yesterday when the case came before the jury, there wasn't a solitary soul in the whole city of Chicago, either officers or citizens, who could go on the witness stand and say, or may we suggest, would say, that they knew of no means of visible support upon which Capone depended for a living.

Without any witnesses willing to say that, the state's attorney was bound to move for dismissal of the case, and the gang leader smiled and retired. If anyone in the city had gone on the stand and made that declaration, Capone would have had to make his defense and reveal the sources of his income, to show that he was not a vagrant; that he had legitimate sources of income.

There is no man upon whose life there has been a more intense ray of publicity than upon the life of Capone. Books have been written on it; his movements are known; gang killings, many in number, and terrible in execution, have been charged to him. He hasn't particularly denied them. And yet there in the great city of Chicago, this enemy of society plies his traffic through racketeers, and the state's attorney, representing the commonwealth, must declare there is nothing against him.

Almost at the same moment, in another courtroom, a jury brings in a verdict of "guilty" on the man who killed Lingle, of the Chicago Tribune, when he was about to take a car in the subway, and the sentence was pronounced upon him of 14 years. Here was a spectacular and well planned murder in broad daylight, and the murderer gets what would be certainly considered a very brief period of time in the penitentiary as a punishment, with all the possibilities in favor of his getting out in a very short space of time.

And at about the same time Pantages gets a new trial.

It is exceedingly difficult for the average layman to be patient with the court procedure and the general machinery for the enforcement of law. Orators, in order to hear the acclaim of the people will vociferously declare the condition is due to foreigners and the remedy is deportation. But there is no foreign city anywhere in which this condition or anything like it prevails, as there does in the United States. They would make short shrift of these "foreigners" in their own land, if they attempted the murders and riots and racketeering and corruption which they carry on in our own cities. Of course, the situation is primarily due to compromising, all the way through, with crime and criminals.

THE STUDENT EXAMINES THE PROFESSOR

The professors at the University of Chicago laughed when the professors at Columbia "flunked" an examination on general knowledge prepared by their students. But the tables were turned when the professors at Chicago "flunked" out on an examination of a similar kind given by their students. We are sorry that the questions on which the professors "flunked" in both these universities were not made public; but it is said that the four professors who took the examination at the University of Chicago gave one correct answer to a question, two frankly said, "I don't know," and another made a brave stab at a rather tough Latin quotation.

Perhaps some of us would be rather reluctant to take an examination from one of our high school boys, because we are inclined to think we should suffer the same fate. Yet we have a suspicion that the professors at Chicago and Columbia were not dumb Doras. The value of an education is not in what we recall in facts, so much as in the ability to know where to find the facts when we want them or need them, and the further ability to take facts and apply them to the needs and problems of life. Among the questions in a geography of the last generation was: "How many miles is it from Cape Chilyuskin to the North Pole?" The question still lingers in the memory, and presumably many boys who used that geography knew where Cape Chilyuskin was, and how far it was away from the North Pole. But we confess that we do not know where to look for Cape Chilyuskin, and we are just as ignorant as to its distance from the North Pole. Yet, we have a very confident notion that our education "took" despite our ignorance of these facts.

Most college graduates out in the world today, if their admission to college depended on passing the entrance examinations, would not get in. But perhaps it would not take them long to cram up. At any rate, their education has been a great practical and cultural help to them all through the years in meeting their business or intellectual problems. "General knowledge" is the least part of a real education.

GERMAN CONSTITUTION FOUND

There has been consternation in Germany the past five months. The original copy of the Constitution of 1849 has been missing. It was stolen last October from the Reichstag library. Could there be anything more disconcerting to so methodical a people as the Germans, than losing a Constitution, even one that is a bit out-of-date?

It appears that the fellow in whose attic the tooled leather volume valued at $25,000 was found had been trying to sell it. It was to have been sent to America in a few days, so the story goes. Stealing a Constitution with the idea of realizing money on it is a rather novel idea. Silver, rare books, paintings, yes, but a Constitution!

Could the right of possession be any more clear-cut than with a Constitution? It is like stealing a library book which has the name of the library indelibly stamped on and in the pages. What satisfaction could a person get from owning the original copy of the German Constitution since it so obviously and rightly belongs to the German people?

Professor Vollmer

Announcement that Chief Vollmer of the Berkeley police department is to be a professor of police administration at the University of California means this state is to secure those benefits of his study and experience which for some reasons have been sought by the University of Chicago. Chief Vollmer, of his own efforts, has made himself a national authority. A town marshal who took his job seriously and set about inquiring into ways to improve and enlarge police procedure, became police chief of the small city which grew to be the present Berkeley and there with quiet and effective methods and research established his wide reputation. He will be an acquisition to the university—and Berkeley will welcome him home.

The Joy of Living!

Fresno Morning Republican

If you were about to die, how valuable would seem each moment lying between you and the vague eternity!

But we are not dying, but living! And how little we seem to appreciate the beauty of this spring weather! Every moment is a solace and an opportunity, a forgetfulness of yesterday and an inspiration for tomorrow.

But even if you do not love this spring, there are thousands of your fellows who do. Every foot-hill nook these Sunday afternoons is filled with nature lovers. And most of them, we are thankful to say, are lover enough not to despoil the beauty they find.

SATURDAY, APRIL 4

Extreme Unction

(Read Luke 23:39-49. Text, Luke 23:43.)

And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in paradise.

This story of the penitent thief we owe to Luke's researches. His lessons are precious. Truly, while there is life there is hope. And the last act of Jesus, while he was in his own agony, was to give comfort to a dying criminal. To the end, it was his mission to seek and to save the lost: to the end it was his way to ease the sufferings of the human heart. There is a satisfaction, too, in thinking that our Lord had companionship in His last agony. His friends had forsaken Him and fled. His enemies, with brutal malice, flung taunts at him. In this least expected place He found a friend who believed in Him. The Friend of sinners went into the great mystery leading a penitent sinner; they would be together in paradise.

PRAYER: Our Heavenly Father, who wilt not the death of a sinner, but that all should come unto thee, and live; we pray that thou wilt be very near to any who are departing this life, giving to them comfort of hope, and peace to the end. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Now Easter comes, and sun-bright days hold
And soft winds toss a stronger, clean perfume,
And skies, star-spangled, bend a little lower,
There is no death . . . no one is in the tomb.

Oh, we who walked so long in paths of drab-
ness,
Who sometimes thought that every hope was gone,
There is a challenge in spring's resurrection,
Life wins again, take heart, go singing on!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

SIC TRANSIT
Where is the Bower
So fragrant and flowery,
Where a boy was a "Bo"
And a girl was a "Skollit"?
Whose rough reputation
Throughout our great nation
Was made by the pen
Of the late Charles H. Hoyt?

That street of romances
And curious dances
And rough kindly souls,
Which old-timers recall,
Is but a faint glimmer
Which daily grows dimmer
And probably never Existed at all.

Where are the miners,
The old forty-niners,
Who shot people down
In defense of their "claims"?
Who were first in the fighting
When wrongs needed righting
And scorned to wear "Mister"
In front of their names?

From song and from story
One learns of their glory
(See Francis Bret Harte,
Who could swing a keen pen).
But outside of romances,
I figure the chances
A hundred to one
That there were no such men!

If We Had an All-Wise Dictator

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Why can't we keep our industrial machinery going? We have everything we need, says Engineer Ralph E. Flanders, except an understanding on the part of economists of how the machinery works. Every engineer knows that if an All-Wise Dictator were installed as ruler of the United States, the engineers could provide for him raw materials, machinery, and labor sufficient to flood, bury, and smother the population in such an avalanche of food, clothing, shelter, luxuries, and material refinements as no Utopian dreamer, in his busiest slumbers, has ever conceived.

In this connection, the remarks of Wesley C. Mitchell, a Columbia University economist, are much to the point. Commenting on the complaint of the engineers, which we discussed yesterday, Dr. Mitchell says that the fundamental difficulty is that economics deals with the most complicated of all materials—human behavior. Man is an animal. All animals are complicated. Man is the most complicated, the most variable, of the lot. He is a creature of slowly changing habits, of loves and hates, of wild impulses as well as being, at times, a creature with some capacity to reason.

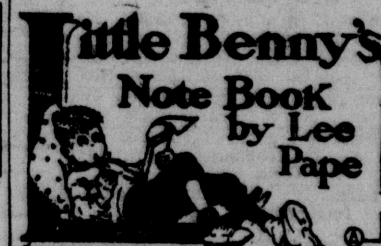

Economists cannot experiment upon him scientifically. He objects.

Even when economists are unanimous in pointing out the folly of his proposed acts—as in the cases of the present tariff and the price-fixing of wheat—he allows his conduct to be governed, not by reason, but by party pressure and inherited prejudices.

That is why the United States would not produce the Utopian avalanche of wealth, which the Engineer says is physically possible, even if an All-Wise Dictator came into power. The first thing we would do would be to overthrow the All-Wise Dictator.

Economists welcome the proposed study by the Engineering Council. Such research is sure to add to our knowledge of the means of control of business cycles. But research is only the first step. The next is education.

An All-Wise Leadership is not enough. Essential, also, is an All-Wise Followership.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

STALIN AS PROPHET

Several weeks ago the press of the country carried the report of an address by Stalin, the dictator-successor of Lenin.

I clipped this address and have kept it pinned above my desk as a challenging prophecy that should be called again and again to the attention of the political and business leadership of the United States.

"Capitalism is still strong and may recover," said Stalin in this address, "but this last year has exposed its fatal weakness—capitalism cannot exist without markets, and the mutual rivalry of capitalist States bars them from each other's markets."

"Thus the stronger States are forced to bring pressure upon the weak ones."
"Some European countries suffer more from the present crisis than others, as a result of the World War. Some are smaller and more backward and the stronger powers must seek an issue of their own difficulties at their expense."

"The breaking point will naturally come in the country least capable of resistance, because every chain breaks at its weakest link."

"It is inevitable that the efforts of the stronger powers to overcome the economic crisis will force them to crush their weaker rivals."

"That does not necessarily mean war—not for the time being—until a later day, when the giant powers must fight for markets among themselves."

It is this last sentence in the Stalin forecast that deserves our attention.

We blithely and blindly talk about the expansion of our foreign trade.

We make tariff policies through a process of log rolling between this and that private interest.

I look in vain among the leaders of American politics and economics for a broad and philosophical consideration of the problems of foreign trade and tariffs in terms of what our own policies will mean to the future of the world in which our own future is intimately involved.

If, politically and economically, we can only bring ourselves to the point of thinking nationally and internationally, and go beyond the determination of policy by sheer horse-trading, we can prove Stalin's forecast false.

If not, Stalin's ghost may laugh at us!

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

LONG AGO

There is no story a child likes as well as the one you tell about that time, long ago, when you were young. The things you did, the fun you had, the sorrows you bore, thrill him as no others can. Here is your chance.

It happens in the best of families that now and then a child makes a mistake. Not just a little one, but a right big one that brings down the wrath of the whole family including relations. There is much talking and much, "If he belonged to me," suggestions. He belongs to nobody. He is as lonely and self-dependent as any among us and what he needs is light, not thunder.

Preaching stuns him and makes him sullen. Punishment, save in rare circumstances, only serves to increase the turmoil within him. Advice falls upon closed ears and threats are wasted breath. What is to be done? Nothing, usually. Just wait until the storm has passed and then, when the time and place and mood are just right, tell the story of what you did once upon a time.

If you are honest, and wise, you will select your story and tell it with good effect. There is a certain confidential air about such a story. It happened to you and you are telling it to your own child and the attitude of teller and listener is one of friendly intimacy. There springs up between you a feeling of comradeship, of understanding, that no amount of righteous indignation, punishment, advice and discipline could accomplish.

Of course these stories must be wise and must be true. It will not help to tell your child of an action that was wrong just to place yourself in the light as a hero. Nor will it do to tell him anything that might inspire him to make a mistake like your own. The story is to tell him that you are human as he is, that things happened to you, that you did things, that you learned things—as he will experience in his life, and that the better way out is by way of the straight and narrow road.

Boasting of brave deeds done is not the best sort of "Long Ago" story. Nor is the tale of wrongdoing just the thing unless you can indicate that you learned by sad experience the foolishness of it all. The story you want to tell is the one that makes you human and fallible as the child is, so as to establish a closer bond between you.

He likes to know that you failed in school occasionally, that you liked girls and were guilty of passing a note now and then; that you once talked back to your mother and you wish you hadn't (just as he wishes it now); that you played on the baseball team, and weren't elected captain; that you forgot to wipe your feet, hang up your hat and feed the dog; that you said the smart thing and were proud of it for a long time, until one day you saw how mighty cheap it was, this smart talking to gray-haired people who knew too much to put you in your proper place. It is the story of your slow progress to growth and power and wisdom, that he needs to learn.

Tell him all about it; keep no secrets from him, and you will be delighted to find that you have the beginnings of a "lasting friendship" of the most precious kind.

ON THE SIDELINES

Which may or may not be in accord with the views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

HE OVERDID IT.—In Los Angeles, where something new and different happens every day, a man is on trial charged with assault with a deadly weapon. The circumstances, as set forth in the complaint, are that the man's wife insisted that it was her heaven-born right and privilege to wear beach pajamas whenever and wherever she felt inclined.

Thereupon the husband undertook corrective and preventive measures by means of the garden hose vigorously applied to the person of the aforesaid wife. Unfortunately he neglected to remove the nozzle from the hose before administering "treatment" and this omission, it is claimed, brings his act within the "assault with deadly weapon" category. Surely a man has a right to do as he sees fit, using legal means of course, to prevent his wife from joining the pajama-clad throng but he should at least remove the nozzle from the hose.

The sweeping indictment of the ant and his forbears granted only one virtue to the insect, i. e.: that it could be held up as a horrible example at all hazards to be avoided.

IT'S A SAD, SAD STORY.—What on earth are we going to do, that is to say those of us who have believed that the ant represented industry, courage and frugality?

Solomon started it when he wrote:
"Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways and be wise."

And only last year the Belgian poet, Maurice Maeterlinck, published his "Life of the Ant," in which he said: "The ant is inconceivably one of the noblest, most courageous, most charitable, most devoted, most generous and most altruistic creatures on earth," and he prophesied a noble evolutionary

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC'S VENTURE

The venture of the Southern Pacific railroad in issuing one cent per mile rates for three days' excursion tickets has been found profitable, so comes the report. Perhaps this venture will be adopted by other roads over the country. The railroads have had a very hard year, and the prospects for the railroads are not bright. High passenger rates have reduced the volume of travel tremendously. Local trains are running with a baker's dozen passengers. Yet thousands might be induced to ride, who never ride on a train at all, because the present price is prohibitive.

In European countries the matter is adjusted by the class method. First class passengers pay a very high rate. Second class passengers pay a rate nearly as high as we pay here. But third class and fourth class passengers pay a very low rate. In this way the poor are encouraged to do a good deal of traveling, much more so than the poor of this country. There was a time when a man who never rode on a train was a curiosity. We need not go very far today to find hundreds of persons who have grown to their majority without ever having ridden in a steam train. And it is partially due to the high rates. The buses are not all to blame for the plight of the railroads. A venture like that of the Southern Pacific might help the earnings of many railroads now operating in the red.
